Fire History Repeats

A Tin Can 'Time Capsule'

RELICS OF PAST. David Dray, crane operator for a firm razing the fire-ravaged Siff Building, holds newspapers and a woman's shoe found in the tin can discovered Wednesday in an alcove where it was placed in 1905 when the building was erected.

By TOM FUTHEY

The history of fires in East Liverpool's Diamond area is repeating itself.

Sixty-three years ago a tin can 'time capsule' was placed in a cornerstone of the foundation of the Smith-Fowler Building at the site of a building destroyed by fire in 1905.

Wednesday the can, 6 inches in diameter and 9 inches tall, was uncovered in the ruins of the Siff Shoe Store Building—or the former Fowler Building — which was gutted by the $900,000 blaze that hit the quarter-block section of Market and E. 6th St.

The container was found by David Dray, crane operator for Mike Pusateri, contractor, who has been razing the four-story structure.

THE CAN held newspapers dating from 1863 — including a New York Herald describing the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln — a woman's shoe, political cards, and a note by the father of a current city Councilman.

Also contained is a 6 a. m. "fire edition" of "The Evening Review," dated March 1, 1905—ironically within two days of the same month and day of the fire which occurred here 63 years later. The 1905 fire caused between $500,000 and $750,000 damage, considerably more of a loss than that which occurred last week, comparing the valuations then and now. A fireman was killed in the 1905 conflagration.

An article in the "Review" on Oct. 9, 1905, explained how the can came to be placed in the building. The account follows:

"THE CORNERSTONE of the Smith - Fowler building in the Diamond, which is to be as fine as any in the city, will be laid tomorrow morning. (Oct. 10, 1905) Although there will be no formal ceremonies, the event will be one of general interest. Under the stone will be placed copies of the daily papers of the city of current date.

"It will be remembered that a copy of the Ohio Patriot for November 1, 1883, was taken from beneath the cornerstone of the Fowler building after the big fire last spring. The paper has been preserved and will be placed under the cornerstone of the new building.

"Another old publication, a copy of which was furnished by George Pech, will be included. This is a copy of the Potters' Gazette, published by David Martin, formerly of this city and now located in Chicago. The issue is nearly half a century old and contains an account of the assassination of President Lincoln."

The Review's account is somewhat inaccurate, however, since it is not the Potters' Gazette, an issue of July 20, 1882, which carries the account of Lincoln's assassination, but a copy of the defunct New York Herald, published, April 15, 1865.

THE FIND Wednesday afternoon is similar to the discovery made after the 1905 conflagration.

Dray discovered the can set in an alcove apparently made especially for it in back of a massive stone pillar at the north corner of the building near the sidewalk at one corner of the Roberts Jewelry store.

The relics almost went undiscovered, however, Dray related. Workmen were going to knock down the stone pillar and brick

Kennedy's Candidacy Step Waited

Says Hampshire Removed Obstacle To Opposing LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has stepped to the brink of presidential candidacy and a key aide says he'll make his decision in a week.

Kennedy huddled with political advisers in New York Wednesday night after saying in Washington he is reassessing whether to run against President Johnson.

The New York Democrat said the New Hampshire primary results removed "the major obstacle" to challenging Johnson—and said the vote demonstrated Democratic concern over Johnson policies.

But Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who drew an unexpectedly high 42 per cent of the New Hampshire Democratic vote, said he won't pull out of the race whatever the New Yorker decides to do.

"He's been reassessing his position all along the way," McCarthy told newsmen after a 20-minute meeting with Kennedy. "I said I intended to stay in the primaries and in the race," the Minnesotan added.

A close aide said Kennedy will make his decision by March 22, the deadline for entering the May 28 Oregon primary. And Kennedy said if he runs he probably would have to campaign actively in the primaries.

"Otherwise, there is no reason why anyone should consider me," he told newsmen.

Kennedy said the major obstacle to his candidacy had been a fear of deeply dividing the Democratic party if he was suspected of personal ambition or personal animosity toward Johnson.

But McCarthy's strong showing in New Hampshire removed the personal element, Kennedy said, and "indicated a good deal of concern in the Democratic party about the direction our country is going."

3 Advance To County Finals

Boy Wins Wellsville 'Bee'

ADVANCE TO COUNTY FINALS. Proudly holding trophies presented them by William Ferrall, president of the Board of Education, are the Wellsville public school system spellers who advanced to the county finals April 10 at Lisbon by finishing one, two and three in Wednesday's competition. Left to right are Danny Crook, Kristie Miller and Peggy Lanam.

Danny Crook, a seventh-grade student at Daw Junior High School, today proudly wears the crown symbolic of champion speller in the Wellsville public school system.

He won the title Wednesday afternoon during the annual bee in the all-purpose room at the MacDonald building.

Kristie Miller, a sixth-grader at MacDonald, and Peggy Lanam, a seventh - grader at Daw Junior, finished second and third, respectively.

THE THREE will represent the Wellsville public schools in the countywide finals April 10 at 7:30 p.m. at David Anderson High School in Lisbon.

Dorma Stock, another seventh-grader from Daw Junior, is first alternate.

This is the first time in 10 years that a MacDonald student has advanced to the county finals, bee officials pointed out. Danny is the second member of his family to be a champion, his brother Lee winning honors in 1966.

They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Crook Jr. of 1797 Buckeye Ave.

Kristie is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Miller of 503 10th St.; Peggy a daughter of Mr.

Sales Reach New High In All Markets

Pound Value Sinks As Confidence In Paper Money Dips

LONDON (AP) — Europe's gold rush skyrocketed today in a buying spree that economic experts said threatens monetary anarchy.

London, Paris, Zurich and even the normally small Frankfurt market reported levels of sales that dealers had never dreamed possible.

As the gold buying reached record levels, the British pound sterling plunged to its lowest recorded level.

Paris, where sales normally are two to three tons, had more than 40 tons. This was more than twice Wednesday's record high of 16 tons. The Bank of France was hard pressed to fill the demand. London dealers expected sales to top 200 tons.

There was a stampede for gold in Zurich. Frankfurt bankers said there was an unprecedented demand for bullion, gold certificates and coins.

Dealers and both bullion and foreign exchange markets reported a complete collapse of confidence in paper money.

The pattern of sales in all markets showed the buyers were snatching up gold, silver and platinum in any sizes of ingots or coins.

This was an indication that even the grocer on the corner was switching his savings into something he considered safer and more solid than paper money.

"Only firm action by the United States to reduce its foreign payments deficit can now restore public confidence," one market observer commented.

Other sources expected either a complete breakdown of the seven-nation gold pool or official curtailment of sales. London dealers were frantically attempting to calm the panic and were making buyers pay higher and higher prices for the metal.

European financial circles looked to the United States to check the rush on gold. But despite warnings from European experts that the postwar prosperity was in danger of collapse, there was no prospect of

FBI, Police Round Up Suspects

Local Men Among 8 Held In 'White Slavery' Case

Four East Liverpool men, three other Ohioans and a Wheeling woman were rounded up Wednesday night and early today by police and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, charged with transporting women across state lines for the purpose of prostitution.

The FBI identified the suspects as:

Clair Cunningham, 58, and his son, David Cunningham, 19, both of 112 E. 2nd St.; Wesley Gillespie, 19, of 506 E. 5th St.; Bucky Davis, 25, who gave addresses on Ohio Ave. here and in Newell; Mike Scarpasi, 35, of Youngstown, Robert Foster, 43, and Howard DeHaven, 53, both of Akron, and Florence Rottenstein, 59, of Wheeling.

—:—

FIVE OF the suspects, all facing indictments returned by a Federal Grand Jury last Friday at Cleveland, were taken into custody in the immediate East Liverpool area.

Police Chief A. J. Radeschi and Capt. Charles E. (Bill) Tice worked in cooperation with the FBI agents. The area arrests were made between 1:30 p. m. Wednesday and 3:30 this morning.

The two Cunninghams were taken into custody by FBI agents. Gillespie was picked up at his home. Davis was located in an establishment on the "Strip" in Hancock County and Scarpaci was found at a local motel about 11 p. m. Wednesday while police and agents were checking for Davis.

Davis was the last of the eight taken into custody. He was arrested at 3:30 this morning.

Appearance bonds of $2,500 each were set for the defendants in arraignment before U.S. commissioners in Akron, Youngstown and Wheeling.

THE FBI said the indictments allege the defendants transported two women from Warren, Ohio, to Wheeling "for the purpose of prostitution."

The agents declined to reveal the names of the two women allegedly involved. The FBI said the arrests followed an investigation which began last Oc-

Man To Face First-Degree Murder Count

Donald Shultz, 38, of 970 Main St., Wellsville, was to be arraigned on a first - degree murder charge at 2:30 p. m. today before Judge J. L. MacDonald in Columbiana County Southwest Court at Lisbon.

Shultz was taken into custody about 5:30 p. m. Tuesday, an hour after he allegedly shot Freda J. Deem, 36, also known as Freda Deem Shultz, at Pete's Cafe on Commerce St., Wellsville.

The woman, a waitress at the cafe, died in Shadyside Hospital at Pittsburgh nine hours after the shooting. She was shot twice in the right side.

Chief of Police John Hepner of Wellsville and Richard Clark of East Liverpool, assistant prosecuting attorney, filed the murder affidavit late Wednesday morning in Southwest Court.

It alleges that Shultz "did purposely and of deliberate and premeditated malice kill one Freda J. Deem, a.k.a. Freda Deem Shultz." The couple lived together, authorities said. He

Beck Awaits Sentencing For Gambling Conviction

WHEELING — Donald B. Beck, 55, arrested with two other men in a Nov. 5 FBI raid on the Lantern Inn opposite Waterford Park in Hancock County awaits sentencing after being found guilty on all four counts "of traveling interstate to further gambling interests" by a federal jury here Wednesday night.

No date has been set for sentencing. Beck could be fined a maximum of $5,000 and sentenced to five years in prison on each count.

The verdict was returned at 6 p. m. Wednesday ending a three - day trial during which Beck admitted he had been a professional gambler for 25 years. Defense council claimed Beck had resided in a motel near Chester and not in McKeesport, Pa., as alleged by the government.

In closing statements Wednesday, Alfred King, attorney for the government, described Beck as a man with "complete and utter disregard" for state gambling laws. He also said "common sense" dictates that a man would not establish his home in a motel, "particularly on a week-to-week basis."

During the trial eight federal agents took the stand to testify relative to their investigation of Beck in the McKeesport and Chester areas. Two other agents who were experts in gambling mathematics told of finding Lantern Inn slot machines "blocked" in order to lower the yield to patrons.

In his closing remarks, Petranton said the "parading" of the federal agents to the stand was unnecessary because the defense admitted that Beck was the employe of a gambling operation and that he traveled fre-

12 Americans Are Killed In Red Ambush

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops raked a U.S. Army supply convoy from ambush along winding Route 14 in the central highlands but American tanks and helicopter gunships splintered the attackers.

The U.S. Command said 48 North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong guerrillas were killed in the short, midday fight nine miles north of Pleiku City Wednesday. Twelve Americans were killed, eight were wounded and soldiers of the South Vietnamese armored unit escorting the convoy suffered light casualties, the command said.

The enemy sprayed the 4th Infantry Division convoy with bazooka-type rockets and heavy automatic weapons fire and inflicted "moderate" damage on the vehicles, a command spokesman said. This indicated as many as a third of the trucks might have been damaged or destroyed.

Tanks and armored personnel carriers of the 3rd Vietnamese Armored Cavalry raced past the convoy to attack the ambush site, after the fight began at 11:15 a.m., and at 11:25 helicopter gunships sailed into the battle.

Fighter-bombers arrived at 11:59 and within minutes the enemy troops fled.

Army engineers with the convoy began clearing the narrow road, which links the 4th Divi-

Pennsylvania House Okays Teacher Hike

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's public school teachers would receive a $500 across-the-board salary increase under legislation approved by the House Wednesday night.

The bill, passed on a vote of 173-15, was sent to the Senate, where its future was uncertain. The measure cleared the House in only three days.

Minority Democrats, charging that the Republicans were acting with undue haste, repeatedly made attempts to amend the legislation and delay its passage. In the end, all but 10 Democrats and five Republicans voted for the bill.

The Republican proposal, which has not been endorsed by Gov. Shafer, would provide the state's 103,000 teachers and school supervisory personnel with at least $500 more in the 1968-69 school year, plus any $300 increments due them.

In addition, it would raise the statewide minimum starting salary from $4,500 to $5,400 in 1968-69 and to $6,000 in 1969-70. An estimated 85 per cent of the state's school districts currently pay more than the mandated minimum.

Wellsville Driver Injured

Car Rams Another Auto, Then Plunges Into Porch

A 21-year-old Wellsville man was injured early today when his westbound 1965 sedan struck a parked auto on Pennsylvania Ave., East End, and then plunged into the porch of a nearby home, police reported.

Harold N. Russell of 414 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, was taken to Osteopathic Hospital with head, leg and arm injuries after the crash at 12:52 a. m. that damaged a 1962 four-door sedan owned by Dolores E. Stockman of 1546 Pennsylvania Ave. and the porch of a home at 1536 Pennsylvania Ave. owned by Mrs. Ralph Burson.

Officers said the crash left "a large hole in the siding"" in the front of the porch. It also damaged the entire front end of Russell's car and the front and rear of the Stockman auto.

Russell told Patrolman Dwight Garvey he did not remember anything about the crash after his auto struck the parked car.

A West End man was charged with reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident after a mishap Wednesday at 7:17 p.m. at E. 5th St. and Broadway that damaged his truck and a halted 1965 compact sedan operated by Lois Mae Kidd, 34, of 403 Burrows Ave.

Police filed the charges against George F. Ade Sr., 68, of 715 Edwards Ave. The woman told police she was halted for the traffic light at the intersection and preparing to make a left turn onto Broadway when the 1965 model truck passed her on the left-hand side and struck her auto on the left front.

Abe did not stop after the collision, she related. The woman said she pursued Ade and halted him near the intersection of Market and E. 5th Sts. Police said the report was verified by

Car Rams Another Auto, Then Plunges Into Porch

A 21-year-old Wellsville man was injured early today when his westbound 1965 sedan struck a parked auto on Pennsylvania Ave., East End, and then plunged into the porch of a nearby home, police reported.

Harold N. Russell of 414 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, was taken to Osteopathic Hospital with head, leg and arm injuries after the crash at 12:52 a. m. that damaged a 1962 four-door sedan owned by Dolores E. Officers said the crash left "a large hole in the siding" in the front of the porch. It also damaged the entire front end of Russell's car and the front and rear of the Stockman auto.

Russell told Patrolman Dwight Garvey he did not remember anything about the crash after his auto struck the parked car.

Police filed the charges against George F. Ade Sr., 68, of 715 Edwards Ave. The woman told police she was halted for the traffic light at the intersection and preparing to make a left turn onto Broadway when the 1965 model truck passed her on the left-hand side and struck her auto on the left front.

Abe did not stop after the collision, she related. The woman said she pursued Ade and halted him near the intersection of Market and E. 5th Sts. Police said the report was verified by

Chester Police Probe Entry At Ludovici's Sales

Chester Police Chief Audley Campbell reports a breaking and entering at Ludovici's Pontiac Sales, Inc., at 6th and Carolina Ave.

Inventory is being taken this morning. Campbell said a tape recorder is missing and possibly other merchandise may have been stolen.

The robbery occurred between 8 p. m. Wednesday and 8 a. m. today when the establishment opened. Entry was made through a window at the side of the building.

In addition to automobiles, Ludovici's also has a television and appliance store in the same building.

Calcutta Woman Burned At Home

A Calcutta woman burned today at home was treated at City Hospital, where three others were treated Wednesday.

Mrs. Alice Ruth Reynolds of Calcutta suffered burns of the right side of the back and arm when her blouse caught fire.

Treated Wednesday were Steven Savers, son of Robert Savers of Lawrenceville, a nose injury in a fall; Rodney Nalley, son of Lloyd Nalley of 514 Grant St., Newell, a laceration of the scalp while lifting weights, and Mrs. Paul Pattison of 505 Louisiana Ave., Chester, a neck strain in an auto accident.

Rig Upsets, Spills Hot Oil

This tank trailer overturned on a corner of 3rd and Lisbon Sts. this morning in Wellsville, spilling some 1,700 gallons of hot crude oil and blocking traffic on busy Route 7.

Wellsville police said the rear trailer of the rig operated by William Kraus, 40, of Massillon overturned, spilling about half its contents which were heated to 150 degrees to be kept from freezing.

City employes were expected to be at work late this afternoon cleaning away the oil which spread along the street into a storm sewer.

Kraus said he turned the bend at a "reasonable speed, felt something jar the truck, and looked back to see the tanker on its side."

Traffic was detoured down 2nd St. to Commerce St.

The truck, owned by Ray Molder Carrier Corp. of Canton, was loaded at the Allied Oil Co., located on Riverside Ave.

Officials said the oil, which is used in blast furnaces, has a high freezing temperature and has to be heated to about 150 degrees to liquify sufficiently to pour into the tanker.

When it spilled onto the road, it began to freeze immediately, Fire Chief Robert Lewis pointed out. He said efforts to stop it from flowing into a storm sewer were fruitless, and what damage, if any, may result, is unknown at this time.

Lewis added that no damage resulted from the hot oil pouring out onto the streets.

Police said there is no danger of the oil burning since it must be mixed with other material before it becomes flammable.

Chester Police Probe Entry At Ludovici's Sales

Chester Police Chief Audley Campbell reports a breaking and entering at Ludovici's Pontiac Sales, Inc., at 6th and Carolina Ave.

Inventory is being taken this morning. Campbell said a tape recorder is missing and possibly other merchandise may have been stolen.

The robbery occurred between 8 p. m. Wednesday and 8 a. m. today when the establishment opened. Entry was made through a window at the side of the building.

In addition to automobiles, Ludovici's also has a television and appliance store in the same building.

Calcutta Woman Burned At Home

A Calcutta woman burned today at home was treated at City Hospital, where three others were treated Wednesday.

Mrs. Alice Ruth Reynolds of Calcutta suffered burns of the right side of the back and arm when her blouse caught fire.

Treated Wednesday were Steven Savers, son of Robert Savers of Lawrenceville, a nose injury in a fall; Rodney Nalley, son of Lloyd Nalley of 514 Grant St., Newell, a laceration of the scalp while lifting weights, and Mrs. Paul Pattison of 505 Louisiana Ave., Chester, a neck strain in an auto accident.

Rig Upsets, Spills Hot Oil

This tank trailer overturned on a corner of 3rd and Lisbon Sts. this morning in Wellsville, spilling some 1,700 gallons of hot crude oil and blocking traffic on busy Route 7.

Wellsville police said the rear trailer of the rig operated by William Kraus, 40, of Massillon overturned, spilling about half its contents which were heated to 150 degrees to be kept from freezing.

City employes were expected to be at work late this afternoon cleaning away the oil which spread along the street into a storm sewer.

Kraus said he turned the bend at a "reasonable speed, felt something jar the truck, and looked back to see the tanker on its side."

Traffic was detoured down 2nd St. to Commerce St.

The truck, owned by Ray Molder Carrier Corp. of Canton, was loaded at the Allied Oil Co., located on Riverside Ave.

Officials said the oil, which is used in blast furnaces, has a high freezing temperature and has to be heated to about 150 degrees to liquify sufficiently to pour into the tanker.

When it spilled onto the road, it began to freeze immediately, Fire Chief Robert Lewis pointed out. He said efforts to stop it from flowing into a storm sewer were fruitless, and what damage, if any, may result, is unknown at this time.

Lewis added that no damage resulted from the hot oil pouring out onto the streets.

Police said there is no danger of the oil burning since it must be mixed with other material before it becomes flammable.

He was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

He was in "fair" condition with lacerations of the face.

Petrosky was on his way to work at a construction company project at the Jones & Laughlin Co. plant at Aliquippa.

Council OK's Road Repairs At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — Repairs and improvements to the village dump road and erection of a fire control fence at the dump were approved by Council Wednesday night.

Council also authorized ditching of a section of North St. where water has been draining onto property. Caution lights were ordered placed in the East End where county road crews have begun construction of a new bridge.

Discussion was held on setting drums filled with ashes on streets where the snow plow cannot enter for use by motorists when needed.

Council approved slag for a section of Jefferson St. where school buses travel. The Ohio Department of Highways was grantd permission to paint guardrails in the village.

A letter was authorized to the Penn Central railroad requesting spilled molasses be cleaned from the area where cars derailed a number of weeks ago.

Discussion was held on an inquiry from an out-of-town businessman to establish an automatic laundry. Council was favorable to the project, but suggested approval be obtained from county officials concerning sewage disposal permits.

It was announced repairs had been completed on the police cruiser. Bills totaling $1,074 were paid. Mayor Dwayne Felton presided.

The next meeting will be March 25.

Youth Held For Court On Burglary Charges

James F. Cramer, 19, of 876 Baxter St. was bound over to the grand jury today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after pleading not guilty and waiving a preliminary hearing on charges in connection with a burglary Feb. 28 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ray Connell of Oakwood Ave.

On motion of Asst. Solicitor Jackman Vodrey, the charge was reduced from burglary of an inhabited dwelling in the night season to burglary of an uninhabited dwelling in the night season. Cramer was represented by Donald D. Shay, court-appointed counsel. His bond was set at $1,000.

The charges were filed by Det. Capt. Kenneth H. Mooney and Det. William A. Devon, alleging that Cramer broke into the home and took some old coins, a portable television set and two rings. He was taken into custody March 4.

Woman Due Hearing In Cutting Case

A Midland woman has been released under $500 bond on a charge of aggravated assault and battery after she apparently stabbed her husband.

Mrs. Jo Ann Sentz of 312 Midland Ave. was charged after the incident late Tuesday night at her home. She allegedly stabbed her husband, Charles Sentz of 44 B Midland Heights, Midland, with a butcher knife.

Sentz was admitted to Rochester General Hospital shortly before midnight Tuesday.

Mrs. Sentz will receive a hearing Tuesday at 7 p.m. before Squire Stephen Germusa.

Police Sgt. William Anusich said no reason was given for the knifing. Patrolman Eli Bratich assisted in the investigation.

Daniel Orlando's Elected Head Of Midland Firemen

Daniel Orlando was elected president of the Midland volunteer fire department Monday night.

Incumbent Tony Monaco and Orlando tied for the position. Monaco then conceded the election since he has been president for eight years.

The firemen expressed their appreciation for Monaco's service as president. Under his administration, the department purchased a new emergency fire truck, new uniforms, negotiated with the borough for a life insurance policy for firemen, and picked up local donations for Muscular Dystrophy.

Other new officers are Andy Rosepiler, vice president; Patrolman William Monac, secretary, and Angelo Tozana, treasurer.

The group made tentative plans to hold an annual banquet soon after Lent. John Giordano is general chairman, with Fire Chief Vincent D'Itri, Patrolman Monac and Ollie Hamel, invitations; and Tozana and Patrolman Chester "Bud" Cook, entertainment and program.

Never The Twain Shall Meet

If Secretary of State Rusk and his worthy opponents of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had been conducting a formal debate, they would have been called to order by the moderator.

They were talking about different things — debating irreconcilable subjects. No wonder they ended where they began — nowhere.

The secretary's opponents were talking about how to get out of a war. They were wondering why they shouldn't be consulted about decisions now in the making, concerning U. S. commitments in Southeast Asia.

Military matters lie wholly in the constitutional authority of the chief executive of the United States — the commander-in-chief of the armed services. The Senate has nothing to say about these.

What the Senate has something to say about is foreign policy, as spelled out in treaties.

This is the way foreign policy once was made exclusively — in treaties. The Senate's advice and consent were to be sought by the chief executive before the treaties were made.

This is why the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) is referred to so often by Secretary Rusk. It is the legal base for U. S. intervention in the internal affairs of the Vietnamese people.

But in 1954 when it was signed by the United States, Britain, France, Austrailia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand, none of the signers dreamed of the kind of war now being fought in the Southeast Asia. Britain and France already have walked out on their commitment. The United States has been left holding the SEATO bag, with the nominal aid of Australia and New Zealand. Our foreign policy needs revision.

This is what Senate critics are wondering about. This is why they want the Johnson administration to give them a voice in decisions.

Secretary Rusk, speaking for the Johnson administration, these are military matters, not subject to senatorial advice and consent.

He likes SEATO the way it is. He thinks it is sacred.

Disagreeing senators insist they are fed up with the way things have been going under SEATO. The administration retorts that it is in complete charge of warmaking and resents senatorial intrusion.

The two sides in the debate are talking about different things. Small wonder they can't see eye to eye.

Doing More Than Required

Teaching and law enforcement are particularly responsible careers in a community — those who teach and those who police can do much to shape the character of people in any town or city.

Doctors, lawyers, house painters and steelworkers can be especially skillful in their own fields, but may not have as direct inter-relationship with a whole community as a man or woman in a classroom or an officer on a street corner.

Good teachers not only instruct young people; they hold a duty to provide broad aspects of education and to guide and lead in areas not definied in any job contract or textbook.

Good policemen not only enforce laws and catch criminals; they can create and maintain attitudes which prevent crime and safeguard all people.

The awards presented to Lloyd Stockdale as the outstanding young educator and to Paul Blevins as the outstanding young policeman at the Jaycee "Youth in Government" banquet Tuesday night are tributes not only to these two men but to the many educators and law officers who do much more than their jobs require — because being a good teacher and policeman is just that—doing more.

End Of Scene One

The opening scene in New Hampshire of the Political Follies of 1968 has given us the general idea of what's coming.

The motif of the 1968 show is going to be "surprises." Actually, no real surprises are in store, only fake ones heralded by the shrill cries of pain and pleasure that will be emitted by the performers and their claques.

Look what happened after Scene I.

President Johnson supposedly was anguished by pain because Sen. McCarthy drew almost as many votes as he did in New Hampshire. That was a surprise?

The President was only a write-in candidate. The senator had knocked himself out campaigning on the spot and had been helped by an expensive organization and hundreds of college student volunteers.

Everybody in the know was betting that McCarthy would pull votes galore because New Hampshire voters were fed to the teeth with Johnson. The anti votes were there, as they always are.

Sen. McCarthy is not almost as popular as Lyndon Johnson. Lyndon Johnson is not as popular as he used to be; thats all. Everybody knows this, even people who do scientific polling. Lyndon Johnson is shopworn.

Richard Nixon, walkaway winner of the Republican presidential primary, is suddenly popular instead of shopworn, according to the way he piled up votes in New Hampshire. That's what we're supposed to believe.

But George Romney, his only active opponent, dropped out of the Republican race before turning into the stretch. Nelson Rockefeller never entered the race. Nixon ran against himself. Is it surprising that he won?

With the opening scene out of the way, the stage will be set for the next big "surprise" in Wisconsin. The show must go on. The politicians will drone through their scenes and we will dutifully applaud them. There will be squeals of exultation and moans of disappointment. This is the way it's done, and it's a well and good, but forgive us if it sometimes looks like one of those over-stylized westerns where the bad guy always gets shot and the good guy gets the girl.

Are the actors surprised? They read the script.

We're not surprised, either. We've seen the same play umpteen times. Only the names and the buildup change.

On with the Show!

Over-Simplifying The Issue

Growing concern by many Americans over the increasingly costly involvement in Vietnam gives lie to condemnations of dissent which mark the national scene.

The issue of the conflict over there is one which no one must oversimplify, either by deriding dissenters as communist sympathizers or blasting President Johnson as a war maniac.

Don R. Gosney, county Democrat chairman, this week did not do many of his own party here and across the nation justice by claiming that Sen. Fulbright and his fellow critics of foreign policy are directly aiding Ho Chi Minh.

When differences of opinion cannot be debated, freedom goes out the window. The real question that must be answered in the Congress, in the homes of all Americans is what the commitment in Vietnam means to the future of this nation and the world.

Our troops must be supported to the fullest. On the other hand, many Americans, as evidenced by polls, by the New Hampshire primary, by conversations over lunch tables, have honest doubts about continuing to use and lose American lives in what sometimes seems a hopeless endeavor.

The administration is convinced of the need to stand up against the threat of communism with the force that they best understand, to shore up the outer reaches of the democratic and capitalistic world instead of sacrificing millions of people in Asia, African and Europe only to battle the specter of Peking's hordes at our own shores.

This is the grave issue. It cannot be dismissed with political sloganeering or shallow accusations which are unfair to honest and sincere proponents of either side.

'Who's Responsible For The Ghettos?'

The Jackie-Watchers

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

There has been a lot written about the China-watchers, the Kremlin-watchers and even the Johnson-watchers, but very little has been said about the Jackie-watchers, those dedicated anonymous souls charged with following every movement and interpreting every event in the life of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Art Buchwald

Nobody knows how many Jackie-watchers there are, though the figure of "over 5,000" has been used time and time again.

By chance and good fortune I managed to get in the "Jackie room" of one of the largest newspaper wire services in the world. It was modeled after the Pentagon war room with a wall-to-wall relief map of the world at one end and a large balcony at the other end where the joint chief of Jackie-watchers and his staff could sit and follow Mrs. Kennedy's travels.

AT THE MOMENT I arrived they were pushing a cut-out wooden model of Mrs. Kennedy along the map of Mexico toward Yucatan. A man with an earphone headset was dictating to the man working the map: "She's heading toward the ruins of Uxmal in Merida. Then she's going to the jungle of Palenque to visit the newly-discovered Mayan ruins."

The joint chief was nervously smoking his cigar. "How many photographers do we have in the Yucatan?"

"One hundred and fifty," an aide said.

"We better send in another 75, to be on the safe side."

"But, chief," a lieutenant said, "that will leave us understaffed in case she decides to go to Mexico City."

"We can always send down the reserve photography unit from Los Angeles," the chief said.

Just then a man rushed in with a cable. The lieutenant read it out loud. "Holy smoke! Lord Harlech has just left his home in Wales and is believed to be heading for London!"

A wooden model of Lord Harlech was pushed slowly from Wales toward the British capital.

"What do you think it means?" the aide asked excitedly.

THE CHIEF BIT hard on his cigar. "Let's see. If she's going to visit the ruins at Merida in Mexico and he's on his way to London, it could mean he might be joining her here."

"In the Virgin Islands?"

"Why not? It could be their way of throwing us off. You better send 400 photographers and 200 reporters to the Caribbean just in case."

"Yes, sir."

The chief studied the map again. "Where are John John and Caroline?"

"They're still in New York at the apartment. They haven't moved in three days."

"Very suspicious," the chief said. "You better double the photographers at the apartment. Any word on Princess Radziwill?"

"A Life reporter had her buying clothes at Givenchy yesterday."

"Any wedding dresses?"

"No, sir."

"I don't like it," the chief said. "I don't like it one bit. Why would Harlech go to London at this time? And why didn't Jackie go skiing at Sun Valley instead?"

An aide rushed in. "Bobby has just gone out to visit the sharecroppers in California!"

The chief lit a new cigar. "It could be a diversionary tactic. We better go on red alert. If it's just a scare, it will be good exercise for the troops; but if it's the real thing, we could make the front page of Women's Wear Daily."

RAYMOND MOLEY

Wallace Threat Grows

William S. White is correct when he says that the most obvious beneficiary of the report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders will be George Wallace. For every riot between now and the election will provoke a reaction among the white population, from which Wallace will profit in the North and West. And the social engineers who contributed the bulk of the report certainly have given encouragement to black leaders who ignite the flames of civil strife. As Richard Nixon says, the report blames everyone for the riots except the people who directly created them.

That Wallace already should be reckoned as a decisive factor in the 1968 election is a fact which seems to be missed by nearly everyone who speculates upon the outcome.

ON TRIPS to the South over the past two years political leaders and editors there have told me of the Wallace potential. Within the past two weeks I was told by a keen observer from Tennessee that if the election were held today in Tennessee the result would be Wallace first, Nixon second and President Johnson third.

Since then I have sought the opinions of Republican chairmen in the deep South. They tell me that Wallace is growing stronger every day. These people also say that if Rockefeller were the candidate the effect would be a catastrophic blow to the growing Republican party in the great area which once comprised the Confederacy.

Since Wallace seems likely to be on the ballot in most states in the Midwest and West, he would take a considerable slice from both Mr. Johnson and the Republican candidate. Wallace has already campaigned in various places from Pennsylvania to California, and the nature of his support is becoming more and more clear.

He attracts extremists of the Birch type by dwelling upon their shibboleths: Communism, federal bureaucracy, "intellectuals," "long hairs and short skirts." In riot-ridden cities he is against crime and violence. He speaks no racism, but the implication is clear.

Wallace is highly articulate in his sympathy for blue-collar workers and thus he makes big inroads into the ranks of white nationality groups, especially if their origins are Polish, Hungarian or Italian, for they fear that more jobs for Negroes mean fewer jobs for them. Thus, since those groups are traditionally Democratic, the loss would be Mr. Johnson's. Presumably Wallace's affinity in suburban areas for right-wing extremists would mean losses for a Republican candidate there.

Much of this reaction is against President Johnson and the dominant party in Congress. And Wallace is an accomplished hunter in tangled woods and swamps. He has neither the flair nor the intelligence of Huey Long, but he reaches more deeply into the business community.

HIS CONSERVATISM is completely phony. Except on the issue of civil rights, his paternalism is not unlike Mr. Johnson's. He objects to a national welfare state but, judging by his record in Alabama, his vision is of 50 small welfare states.

In a close contest between Nixon and Mr. Johnson, the Wallace capture of 50 or more electoral votes in the South might well throw the election into the House of Representatives. In that event, unless the Republicans can make considerable gains in the congressional districts, Mr. Johnson would win even with a minority of the popular vote.

A somber element needs to be mentioned: Gov. Lurleen Wallace's dangerous illness. If her illness continues, Wallace's campaign would lack momentum, for he would draw criticism for leaving her side to campaign over a nation. That is no minor factor for his consideration.

War Powers

Officials of the Soviet Government who transmit propaganda all over the world must have rejoiced as they read recent cable dispatches from this country.

The world was informed that certain members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee had accused the United States government of aggression and of having provoked the naval skirmish in the Gulf of Tonkin in August 1964.

This by no means reflects a majority sentiment in the committee. Secretary of State Rusk made it clear in his testimony that all the military chiefs were convinced that attacks on U.S. naval ships were deliberate and not provoked by any American action.

He declared the President had been given full authority by an overwhelming vote of Congress in 1964 to take necessary measures to assist South Vietnam. He also pointed out that American policy in Vietnam is based upon a pledge given in the Southeast Asia Treaty to help resist aggression.

The President has openly challenged the House and Senate to repeal or modify decisions previously made. Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, dared Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the committee, to offer a resolution calling for a "pull-out" of American forces from Vietnam if that is what the Arkansas senator believes should be done now.

SECRETARY RUSK told the committee the President tries to keep Congress informed. The secretary did not discuss the powers of Congress but merely stated that the President has not yet made up his mind about increasing the forces in Vietnam and that if any important decisions are made, congressional leaders will be briefed as usual.

Sen. Fulbright, however, takes the position that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has the right to pass upon such a proposed decision before it is put into effect.

It has always been assumed that once the United States entered a conflict, all decisions were made by the commander-in-chief — namely, the President.

In the case of the Korean War, Congress did not even pass a resolution. President Truman took it for granted that the treaty which the United States had ratified when it entered the United Nations gave ample authority to member states to send troops to Korea when called upon to do so by the U.N.

Secretary Rusk traced the history of many treaties which the United States has made, not only in Latin America but in Europe and in Asia, pledging its support to defend nations from aggression.

In most instances, provision is made for approval by Congress "through constitutional processes." This means that Congress is free to repeal any resolution or terminate any treaty.

The implication of various questions asked by some of the senators in the Foreign Relations Committee was that Congress has the right to intervene and, if necessary, to prevent a President from carrying out military decisions in time of war.

THIS CONCEPT, if applied, could result in tragic consequences. If the United States has an army of a half-million men on foreign territory engaged in defending not only another country but in protecting its own forces stationed there, Congress would be priviledged to veto decisions involving any inceases in manpower or changes in the nature of military operations to be conducted thereafter.

In a nuclear age particularly, it would be risky to spend time on a debate in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before a President is authorized to take steps necessary for the safety of the American people.

The North Atlantic Treaty, for example, signed just after World War II, specifically states that an attack on any member of NATO is to be considered the same as an attack on the United States, itself.

Certainly sessions of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee can hardly hasten the end of the war or persuade the Hanoi regime to come to the peace table.

The North Vietnamese doubtless are being encouraged to believe that if they keep on fighting the United States will be forced by members of Congress into abject surrender.

The truth is that while a small number of senators and representatives have dissented, a majority in each house still supports the principle that the President of the United States has formally been given by Congress full authority and may make any military decisions he deems necessary to carry on the war in Vietnam.

The motif of the 1968 show is going to be "surprises." Actually, no real surprises are in store, only fake ones heralded by the shrill cries of pain and pleasure that will be emitted by the performers and their claques.

Look what happened after Scene I.

President Johnson supposedly was anguished by pain because Sen. McCarthy drew almost as many votes as he did in New Hampshire. That was a surprise?

The President was only a write-in candidate. The senator had knocked himself out campaigning on the spot and had been helped by an expensive organization and hundreds of college student volunteers.

Everybody in the know was betting that McCarthy would pull votes galore because New Hampshire voters were fed to the teeth with Johnson. The anti votes were there, as they always are.

Sen. McCarthy is not almost as popular as Lyndon Johnson. Lyndon Johnson is not as popular as he used to be; thats all. Everybody knows this, even people who do scientific polling. Lyndon Johnson is shopworn.

Richard Nixon, walkaway winner of the Republican presidential primary, is suddenly popular instead of shopworn, according to the way he piled up votes in New Hampshire. That's what we're supposed to believe.

But George Romney, his only active opponent, dropped out of the Republican race before turning into the stretch. Nelson Rockefeller never entered the race. Nixon ran against himself. Is it surprising that he won?

With the opening scene out of the way, the stage will be set for the next big "surprise" in Wisconsin. The show must go on. The politicians will drone through their scenes and we will dutifully applaud them. There will be squeals of exultation and moans of disappointment. This is the way it's done, and it's a well and good, but forgive us if it sometimes looks like one of those over-stylized westerns where the bad guy always gets shot and the good guy gets the girl.

Are the actors surprised? They read the script.

We're not surprised, either. We've seen the same play umpteen times. Only the names and the buildup change.

On with the Show!

Over-Simplifying The Issue

Growing concern by many Americans over the increasingly costly involvement in Vietnam gives lie to condemnations of dissent which mark the national scene.

The issue of the conflict over there is one which no one must oversimplify, either by deriding dissenters as communist sympathizers or blasting President Johnson as a war maniac.

Don R. Gosney, county Democrat chairman, this week did not do many of his own party here and across the nation justice by claiming that Sen. Fulbright and his fellow critics of foreign policy are directly aiding Ho Chi Minh.

When differences of opinion cannot be debated, freedom goes out the window. The real question that must be answered in the Congress, in the homes of all Americans is what the commitment in Vietnam means to the future of this nation and the world.

Our troops must be supported to the fullest. On the other hand, many Americans, as evidenced by polls, by the New Hampshire primary, by conversations over lunch tables, have honest doubts about continuing to use and lose American lives in what sometimes seems a hopeless endeavor.

The administration is convinced of the need to stand up against the threat of communism with the force that they best understand, to shore up the outer reaches of the democratic and capitalistic world instead of sacrificing millions of people in Asia, African and Europe only to battle the specter of Peking's hordes at our own shores.

This is the grave issue. It cannot be dismissed with political sloganeering or shallow accusations which are unfair to honest and sincere proponents of either side.

The Jackie-Watchers

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

There has been a lot written about the China-watchers, the Kremlin-watchers and even the Johnson-watchers, but very little has been said about the Jackie-watchers, those dedicated anonymous souls charged with following every movement and interpreting every event in the life of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Art Buchwald

Nobody knows how many Jackie-watchers there are, though the figure of "over 5,000" has been used time and time again.

By chance and good fortune I managed to get in the "Jackie room" of one of the largest newspaper wire services in the world. It was modeled after the Pentagon war room with a wall-to-wall relief map of the world at one end and a large balcony at the other end where the joint chief of Jackie-watchers and his staff could sit and follow Mrs. Kennedy's travels.

AT THE MOMENT I arrived they were pushing a cut-out wooden model of Mrs. Kennedy along the map of Mexico toward Yucatan. A man with an earphone headset was dictating to the man working the map: "She's heading toward the ruins of Uxmal in Merida. Then she's going to the jungle of Palenque to visit the newly-discovered Mayan ruins."

The joint chief was nervously smoking his cigar. "How many photographers do we have in the Yucatan?"

"One hundred and fifty," an aide said.

"We better send in another 75, to be on the safe side."

"But, chief," a lieutenant said, "that will leave us understaffed in case she decides to go to Mexico City."

"We can always send down the reserve photography unit from Los Angeles," the chief said.

Just then a man rushed in with a cable. The lieutenant read it out loud. "Holy smoke! Lord Harlech has just left his home in Wales and is believed to be heading for London!"

A wooden model of Lord Harlech was pushed slowly from Wales toward the British capital.

"What do you think it means?" the aide asked excitedly.

THE CHIEF BIT hard on his cigar. "Let's see. If she's going to visit the ruins at Merida in Mexico and he's on his way to London, it could mean he might be joining her here."

"In the Virgin Islands?"

"Why not? It could be their way of throwing us off. You better send 400 photographers and 200 reporters to the Caribbean just in case."

"Yes, sir."

The chief studied the map again. "Where are John John and Caroline?"

"They're still in New York at the apartment. They haven't moved in three days."

"Very suspicious," the chief said. "You better double the photographers at the apartment. Any word on Princess Radziwill?"

"A Life reporter had her buying clothes at Givenchy yesterday."

"Any wedding dresses?"

"No, sir."

"I don't like it," the chief said. "I don't like it one bit. Why would Harlech go to London at this time? And why didn't Jackie go skiing at Sun Valley instead?"

An aide rushed in. "Bobby has just gone out to visit the sharecroppers in California!"

The chief lit a new cigar. "It could be a diversionary tactic. We better go on red alert. If it's just a scare, it will be good exercise for the troops; but if it's the real thing, we could make the front page of Women's Wear Daily."

RAYMOND MOLEY

Wallace Threat Grows

William S. White is correct when he says that the most obvious beneficiary of the report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders will be George Wallace. For every riot between now and the election will provoke a reaction among the white population, from which Wallace will profit in the North and West. And the social engineers who contributed the bulk of the report certainly have given encouragement to black leaders who ignite the flames of civil strife. As Richard Nixon says, the report blames everyone for the riots except the people who directly created them.

That Wallace already should be reckoned as a decisive factor in the 1968 election is a fact which seems to be missed by nearly everyone who speculates upon the outcome.

ON TRIPS to the South over the past two years political leaders and editors there have told me of the Wallace potential. Within the past two weeks I was told by a keen observer from Tennessee that if the election were held today in Tennessee the result would be Wallace first, Nixon second and President Johnson third.

Since then I have sought the opinions of Republican chairmen in the deep South. They tell me that Wallace is growing stronger every day. These people also say that if Rockefeller were the candidate the effect would be a catastrophic blow to the growing Republican party in the great area which once comprised the Confederacy.

Since Wallace seems likely to be on the ballot in most states in the Midwest and West, he would take a considerable slice from both Mr. Johnson and the Republican candidate. Wallace has already campaigned in various places from Pennsylvania to California, and the nature of his support is becoming more and more clear.

He attracts extremists of the Birch type by dwelling upon their shibboleths: Communism, federal bureaucracy, "intellectuals," "long hairs and short skirts." In riot-ridden cities he is against crime and violence. He speaks no racism, but the implication is clear.

Wallace is highly articulate in his sympathy for blue-collar workers and thus he makes big inroads into the ranks of white nationality groups, especially if their origins are Polish, Hungarian or Italian, for they fear that more jobs for Negroes mean fewer jobs for them. Thus, since those groups are traditionally Democratic, the loss would be Mr. Johnson's. Presumably Wallace's affinity in suburban areas for right-wing extremists would mean losses for a Republican candidate there.

Much of this reaction is against President Johnson and the dominant party in Congress. And Wallace is an accomplished hunter in tangled woods and swamps. He has neither the flair nor the intelligence of Huey Long, but he reaches more deeply into the business community.

HIS CONSERVATISM is completely phony. Except on the issue of civil rights, his paternalism is not unlike Mr. Johnson's. He objects to a national welfare state but, judging by his record in Alabama, his vision is of 50 small welfare states.

In a close contest between Nixon and Mr. Johnson, the Wallace capture of 50 or more electoral votes in the South might well throw the election into the House of Representatives. In that event, unless the Republicans can make considerable gains in the congressional districts, Mr. Johnson would win even with a minority of the popular vote.

A somber element needs to be mentioned: Gov. Lurleen Wallace's dangerous illness. If her illness continues, Wallace's campaign would lack momentum, for he would draw criticism for leaving her side to campaign over a nation. That is no minor factor for his consideration.

DAVID LAWRENCE

War Powers

Officials of the Soviet Government who transmit propaganda all over the world must have rejoiced as they read recent cable dispatches from this country.

The world was informed that certain members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee had accused the United States government of aggression and of having provoked the naval skirmish in the Gulf of Tonkin in August 1964.

This by no means reflects a majority sentiment in the committee. Secretary of State Rusk made it clear in his testimony that all the military chiefs were convinced that attacks on U.S. naval ships were deliberate and not provoked by any American action.

He declared the President had been given full authority by an overwhelming vote of Congress in 1964 to take necessary measures to assist South Vietnam. He also pointed out that American policy in Vietnam is based upon a pledge given in the Southeast Asia Treaty to help resist aggression.

The President has openly challenged the House and Senate to repeal or modify decisions previously made. Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, dared Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the committee, to offer a resolution calling for a "pull-out" of American forces from Vietnam if that is what the Arkansas senator believes should be done now.

SECRETARY RUSK told the committee the President tries to keep Congress informed. The secretary did not discuss the powers of Congress but merely stated that the President has not yet made up his mind about increasing the forces in Vietnam and that if any important decisions are made, congressional leaders will be briefed as usual.

Sen. Fulbright, however, takes the position that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has the right to pass upon such a proposed decision before it is put into effect.

It has always been assumed that once the United States entered a conflict, all decisions were made by the commander-in-chief — namely, the President.

In the case of the Korean War, Congress did not even pass a resolution. President Truman took it for granted that the treaty which the United States had ratified when it entered the United Nations gave ample authority to member states to send troops to Korea when called upon to do so by the U.N.

Secretary Rusk traced the history of many treaties which the United States has made, not only in Latin America but in Europe and in Asia, pledging its support to defend nations from aggression.

In most instances, provision is made for approval by Congress "through constitutional processes." This means that Congress is free to repeal any resolution or terminate any treaty.

The implication of various questions asked by some of the senators in the Foreign Relations Committee was that Congress has the right to intervene and, if necessary, to prevent a President from carrying out military decisions in time of war.

THIS CONCEPT, if applied, could result in tragic consequences. If the United States has an army of a half-million men on foreign territory engaged in defending not only another country but in protecting its own forces stationed there, Congress would be priviledged to veto decisions involving any inceases in manpower or changes in the nature of military operations to be conducted thereafter.

In a nuclear age particularly, it would be risky to spend time on a debate in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before a President is authorized to take steps necessary for the safety of the American people.

The North Atlantic Treaty, for example, signed just after World War II, specifically states that an attack on any member of NATO is to be considered the same as an attack on the United States, itself.

Certainly sessions of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee can hardly hasten the end of the war or persuade the Hanoi regime to come to the peace table.

The North Vietnamese doubtless are being encouraged to believe that if they keep on fighting the United States will be forced by members of Congress into abject surrender.

The truth is that while a small number of senators and representatives have dissented, a majority in each house still supports the principle that the President of the United States has formally been given by Congress full authority and may make any military decisions he deems necessary to carry on the war in Vietnam.

Local Youth Treated Following Fist Fight

Ronald Craven, 20, of 1058 St. Clair Ave. was admitted to City Hospital with injuries suffered in a fist fight with a 16-year-old youth Wednesday about 3:25 p.m. on the Trinity United Presbyterian Church lot on Maine Blvd., police report.

Patrolmen Karl W. Samples and Charles A. Winters, responding to a call on the church lot, said they found Craven getting into his car and preparing to drive away. His face was "bleeding badly and his eyes were almost closed," the officers reported. He told the police he had been in a fight.

Craven told the officers the fight was a result of an incident earlier in the day at school. He and the 16-year-old agreed to meet on the lot and "fight it out," he said. Twenty other boys watched the fight, but none participated, officers said.

"No weapons were used and it was a good, fair fight," the police report added.

Continuance Granted For Property Razing

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted a continuance until April 15 in a case in which Kenneth Kibler of 2409 St. Clair Ave. is accused of failing to obey a deputy state fire marshal's order to repair or raze a property which he owns at 930 St. Clair Ave.

Fire Chief Alfred VanDyne told the court Kibler was served with the order Oct. 23, covering a piece of property on the east side of St. Clair Ave. near Grant St.

Kibler told the court he was not the owner at that time —"only partially the owner"— because the property was involved in an estate. He said he now owns the property exclusively and is "in a position to tear it down." The court granted the continuance and ordered Kibler to raze the property in the meantime.

Council was told by Donald Bartram of Michael Baker Jr. Inc., the borough engineer, that no funds are available at the present time.

Bartram said he met with state and federal officials to discuss aid for such projects.

Bartram said he was advised that some legislation is being considered by committees at the present time to make additional funds available. In event such bills were passed, a grant might be available to Midland for the plant, he said.

—:—

THE BOROUGH'S incinerator is old, outdated and inadequate. It is located on the Midland Rd.

Bartram said he will meet with members of the Midland Municipal Authority and councilmen to re-evaluate the needs for an incinerator. A further report will be given Council.

The 1967 auditors report was accepted. Frank D'Eramo, William Vinovich Jr. and Crum Dimeff are the auditors.

Council approved paying the auditors their $200 annual fee.

Bartram advised that the new tennis courts are ready for use with the exception of the application of a green and coral seal coat which must be applied after the temperatures pass the 50 degree mark.

—:—

MAYOR ELI G. Corak paid tribute to the junior high school basketball team which, under Coach Nick Aloi, remained the only undefeated junior high team in Beaver County. Council voted to send the team and Coach Aloi a letter of commendation on their great work.

He said the borough has purchased additional playground equipment which will be installed at the playground at Midcrest on property donated last summer by the Beaver County Housing Authority for this purpose. He said additional equipment has been purchased for other borough playgrounds, also.

BARTRAM REFERRED to bids opened at the last meeting on cleaning and inspection of a 72-inch storm sewer. He said he requested additional information from each contractor. As soon as he receives this, he will study the bids, then report to Council.

Ed Cilli, assistant borough secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. Bills totaling $8,961 were paid.

The meeting was attended by Girl Scout Cadet Troop 186 and a co-leader, Mrs. Anthony Migliore. Mrs. Migliore explained the girls are working on an active citizen challenge to earn badges. Two Matters To Be Studied At Wellsville

Meter attendants and restricted parking on the west end of Clark Ave. are on the agenda during a caucus session of Wellsville Council tonight at City Hall.

The meeting, arranged by the street and light committee, was called "in view of growing concern over the unnecessary expense of policemen serving as meter attendants and two recent traffic deaths on Clark Ave., Nunzio Lombardozzi, chairman reported.

J. B. Phillips, a member of the committee, reported the cost to the city to have patrolmen attend the meters would be about $2,404 per year more than for a regular attendant.

Phillips raised the question at Council meeting March 5 of the parking situation on Clark Ave. where the four - lane Route 7 narrows into a two-lane street which is extremely narrow when vehicles are parked on both sides.

He pointed out two traffic deaths have occurred there recently. The most recent was Feb. 26, when Mrs. Dorothy B. Wakefield of Bloomingdale was killed when her auto collided with a tractor-trailor. The accident reportedly resulted when Mrs. Wakefield veered to the center to avoid two trucks parked along the curb on that street.

The committee proposes that parking on the north side of the street, between 15th and 19th Sts. be abandoned, Lombardozzi said.

Glen Mathess, chairman of the finance committee which was scheduled to meet with representatives of city employes tonight to discuss wage increases, said the session will be held later.

The Veterans Administration came into being as an independent U.S. agency in 1930.

Fine Imposed As Man Fires Shotgun Blast

Taken into custody by police Wednesday afternoon on a charge he fired a shotgun blast through a ceiling of his home during a domestic quarrel, Harold M. Pigott of Woodbine Ave., Gardendale, was fined $50 and costs today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Pigott pleaded "no contest" on a charge of discharging a firearm inside the city limits. He pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge, on which he was fined $15 and costs.

Pigott was taken into custody at 2:25 p.m. on Woodbine Ave. by Patrolmen Orin C. Smith and K. J. Montgomery, officers said.

Smith testified they were dispatched to investigate a complaint of shooting on Woodbine Ave. He said the officers found Pigott on the porch at his home. The man had fired a 12-gauge automatic shotgun into the livingroom ceiling, he said.

Noting that Pigott had been arrested previously on assault and battery charges, the judge told him: "You're a mean devil; you better learn to curb your temper." He ordered confiscation of the shotgun.

A visitor arrested at Pigott's home was fined $15 and costs on an intoxication charge. He identified himself as Carry Garrett of 910 St. Clair Ave., a retired employe of the Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Co.

'Plan' Drafted For Youth In Theft Of Auto

A 15-year-old East Liverpool youth who stole a car here March 5 is in detention at Lisbon while his mother and counsel prepare a plan to submit to Juvenile Court.

The boy took a car from the City Hospital parking lot and was apprehended that evening in Athens, Ohio.

At the hearing Tuesday, Judge Louis Tobin gave the mother and attorney one week to suggest an acceptable disposition of the case.

In a similar case Tuesday, Judge Tobin approved a change - of - residence plan offered by the mother of a 16-year-old Lisbon RD 1 youth who broke into the rectory at St. Philip Neri Catholic Church in Dungannon Feb. 23. The court ordered the youth to make restitution of $103 — the total of damages to two windows and a storm door.

Meanwhile, the youth's companion in the break-in remains at Salem City Hospital with a bullet wound in the chest. Court personnel said the 16 - year - old Hanoverton RD 1 boy had a "setback."

The Rev. Fr. Martin E. Malik, a burglary victim several times at St. Philip Neri, surprised two subjects in his house when he returned from a shopping trip and fired a pistol at them as they tried to get out the front door. The shot hit the Hanoverton boy and the other broke through the storm door and fled.

A Klondyke man's car was damaged when it struck a parked tractor-trailer rig at 12:50 a. m. today on Pennsylvania Ave. 30 feet west of Virginia Ave., police said.

The 1963 sedan driven by Kenneth E. Reight, 35, of 2031 Michigan Ave. hit a tractor owned by the Service Transport Co. of Cleveland, damaging the right front of the auto.

Reight told police he was blinded by bright headlights on an oncoming vehicle as he drove east on Pennsylvania Ave. When he pulled to the right, he struck the rig, which he had not seen, he related.

A woman's car damaged a city-owned stop sign at Anderson Blvd. and Rubicon St. Wednesday when the vehicle skidded as the driver attempted a turn, police said.

Mrs. June Goddard, 33, of 170 Vernia St. told police she was turning from Anderson Blvd. onto Rubicon St. when her car skidded and bent the standard of the sign. The pavement was "very icy," she told police.

Driver Injured In Auto Mishap

A Wellsville man was "satisfactory" at Osteopathic Hospital today, where he was treated for injuries suffered when his auto hit a parked car in Wellsville Wednesday at 9:15 p. m.

Lewis H. Crawford, 38, of 1822 Chester Ave., was treated for lacerations and bruises of the head received when his 1963 sedan rammed a 1966 sedan owned by George Spriggs and parked in front of his home at 18th St.

Crawford, an employe of the Sterling China Co. of Wellsville, will be charged with driving while intoxicated when released from the hospital, officers said.

Hephner filed a charge of shooting with intent to kill against Shultz at 11 p. m. Tuesday. That affidavit has not been withdrawn or dismissed, but will be because of developments, court personnel presumed.

Shultz did not learn of the woman's death until late yesterday morning. Chief Deputy Sheriff Robert Beresford, who broke the news to him, said the defendant began to tremble.

It was Beresford who stopped Shultz' car at Air Beacon and the Y. & O. Rds. near Glenmoor after police broadcast a radio alert.

The deputy released the defendant at the scene to Wellsville Policemen Eddie James and Charles Amato. Police later obtained the gun—a .38-caliber Rossi (a Spanish Smith & Wesson revolver) at the home of Shultz's mother on Fife-Coal Rd.

William Telzrow, Wellsville attorney, who was with Shultz during questioning Tuesday night at Wellsville City Hall, was to appear with the defendant today.

immediate action in Washington.

London dealers added a full 5 cents to the price fixed at the opening and still sales were "absolutely fantastic," one said.

More than 50 tons were sold at the daily fixing, when the price was set just under the ceiling at $35.19⅞. Dealers were selling at $35.25, however.

The pound opened at $2.39125, quickly dropped to $2.3910 and then went to its lowest level ever—$2.3896.

Exchange dealers said the market was a shambles with no demand for sterling.

Both the pound and the dollar were down in Frankfurt. In Paris the dollar was fairly steady but the pound lost 170 points, dropping to 11.7800 francs.

More than 15 tons of gold, a record, was sold in Paris Wednesday, and orders by midmorning indicated an even greater demand today.

The Johnson administration appeared to be relying on the proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge, and the bill to lift the 25 per cent gold cover for U.S. currency, both of which are a long way from congressional passage. U.S. officials said further shock waves can be expected until the international money system is reformed.

Gold buying reached near panic proportions in European markets Wednesday, and there was no sign of the rush abating.

The Wheeling woman was identified as the operator of the Floss Hotel on Market St., Wheeling.

The East Liverpool defendants were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Thomas Moore at Youngstown, while Mrs. Rottenstein was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Nell Moran in Wheeling.

The elder Cunningham posted the $2,500 bond and was released. His son and Gillespie still were being held in Mahoning County Jail at Youngstown in default of bond.

Commissioner Moore said they will be arraigned before a federal district judge at Cleveland, probably within 10 days. Davis and Scarpasi were taken before the commissioner in hearings at 11 a. m. today in the Youngstown Post Office Building and their bonds also were set at $2,500.

The Wheeling woman is scheduled for a preliminary hearing at 2 p. m. March 27 before the U.S. commissioner there.

The two Cunninghams were indicted by the January grand jury at Lisbon on charges of "harboring and concealing a felon" —William Nesbitt of Lisbon, formerly of East Liverpool, who is accused of an East End holdup.

'Plan' Drafted For Youth In Theft Of Auto

A 15-year-old East Liverpool youth who stole a car here March 5 is in detention at Lisbon while his mother and counsel prepare a plan to submit to Juvenile Court.

The boy took a car from the City Hospital parking lot and was apprehended that evening in Athens, Ohio.

At the hearing Tuesday, Judge Louis Tobin gave the mother and attorney one week to suggest an acceptable disposition of the case.

In a similar case Tuesday, Judge Tobin approved a change - of - residence plan offered by the mother of a 16-year-old Lisbon RD 1 youth who broke into the rectory at St. Philip Neri Catholic Church in Dungannon Feb. 23. The court ordered the youth to make restitution of $103 — the total of damages to two windows and a storm door.

Meanwhile, the youth's companion in the break-in remains at Salem City Hospital with a bullet wound in the chest. Court personnel said the 16 - year - old Hanoverton RD 1 boy had a "setback."

The Rev. Fr. Martin E. Malik, a burglary victim several times at St. Philip Neri, surprised two subjects in his house when he returned from a shopping trip and fired a pistol at them as they tried to get out the front door. Fire History Repeats behind which hid the can from sight. However, it was decided to first take out the pillar, and the can was spotted.

Copies of the Union Volunteer, published July 10, 1863; the Ohio Patriot, published at New Lisbon Nov. 1, 1883, and War Cry, the official gazette of the Salvation Army in the United States, published Oct. 7, 1905, were included, along with a shoe donated by R. W. Sample, who operated a store, "R. W. Sample & Co., Shoes and Fine Footwear, 230 Diamond, East Liverpool, Ohio."

A note, found stuffed in the toe of the shoe reads as follows:

"Oct. 10, 1905,

"This shoe is in good style for the present day. What we would say an up-to-date one. The stamp on lining is the union stamp. Very much in evidence at the present time.

"R. W. Sample"

"Placed here by R. W. Sample"

—:—

THE CAN, the bottom of which is nearly rusted through, also contained political "calling cards" announcing the candidacies of the following for public office:

Charles H. Risinger for board of public service; William H. Griggs, same; Robert M. Newell, same; C. W. Powell, for constable; James H. Grafton, for mayor, whose stated platform was: "A business administration;" W. V. Blake, for mayor, "A Square Deal for every man; no more, no less;" Thomas Cannon for Council — Fourth Ward (second term); Dr. R. J. Marshall for mayor; Jake Shenkel for board of public service; R. L. Edmonston for board of public service.

Blake won the Republican nomination that year. It was the first primary election ever held; a state law requiring them had just been passed.

R. W. Sample's son, Robert Sample of W. 6th St., said his father moved into a store site where Roberts Jewelers was located until last week's fire. Sample said his father operated the store there from 1898 until the 1905 fire, moved back into the store when the Smith-Fowler building was rebuilt and stayed there until 1914, when he moved his business to 422 Market St. where Fleming's Confectionery had been located and Bloor's Pharmacy currently is situated.

In the Fowler building with Sample's father was the Huebner and Webber Drugstore and the Yates Novelty Store. Both Huebner's and Yates' were situated in the portion of the building which housed the Siff Shoe store.

S. C. DYKE of the Electric Porcelain Co. of East Liverpool, makers of high grade vitreous porcelain, included his business card in the can.

So did J. Edwin McClure, secretary of the Buckeye Club. But, he also included a key to the one-time posh club which was located in the Fowler building for many years. The card and key were enclosed in an envelope from the club marked by McClure, "For Box to be put in corner stone of the New Fowler Building."

A note from the son of a state senator read as follows: "Harold Fowler Blake, Age 11 years, son of Senator W. V. Blake." It was written carefully on stationery of the Ohio General Assembly and enclosed in a similar envelope.

Harold Blake was a brother of Perc R. Blake, who for many years was associated with the Riggs Co. He is retired.

Business forms of the times were shown with an invoice of Thomas Marran, "Wholesale confectioner, tobacco and cigars, teas, coffees, baking powders and spices, No. 233 Diamond, Geo. Peach's Old Stand."

The invoice along with the Union Volunteer newspaper printed at Louisville, Ky., were donated by Peach. The newspaper describes the Union victory at Gettysburg and Vicksburg during the Civil War.

The fire which destroyed the old Fowller building and caused the new one to be erected in 1905, took the life of one "daring young fireman."

THE ACCOUNT of the fatality read:

"The only fatality resulting from the fire occurred this morning (March 1, 1905) at about 2:25 o'clock when Bert Swearingen, of the East End, a volunteer fireman, was crushed under a falling wall. The young man was in company of Will Torrence, son of Capt. Will Torrence of the East End.

"Swearingen, who is one of the best known young men of the city, was on the scene of the fire early in the evening and many times placed himself in great danger through his willingness to help. He was warned by the regular firemen to stay away and not be so daring, but he persisted in fighting the fire and once volunteered to go down into the cellar under the Boston store while it was filled with dense smoke. Had he vnetured into it, death would have been certain.

"Being personally acquainted with Will Torrence, he was allowed to help hold the nozzle of a hose and it was while doing this that he met death. Both young men were standing in front of the wall of the Gass shoe store (where the blaze began), with the nozzle in their hands, when the wall cracked and started to fall.

"Torrence ran back in haste, but Swearingen was not fast enough and was caught under the terrible weight. His head was crushed, and he died instantly. He was knocked down into the cellar and his body was recovered by Officer Clifford Dawson. The body was taken to the store of Z. B. Kinsey, and Dr. A. B. Ogden was called, but the young man was past all medical aid. The remains were turned over to Undertaker McQuilkin.

"SWEARINGEN was about 20 years old and was the son of Mrs. Swearingen who lives in Pittsburg. His sister died a few months ago as a result of falling from a trestle near Harker's pottery. He has been employed in a local pottery and boarded with a relative at Ralston's Crossing."

The electric lights were turned off early when the fire broke out, and "at the Ceramic theatre the superb play, 'The Sign of the Cross,' was presented to a large house under most unusual and somewhat primitive conditions.

"The building has not yet been equipped for gas illumination, and when the electricity was turned off oil lamps and candles were resorted to. The stage was not as brilliant as usual, but the play went off very well, everything considered."

Firemen later said the blaze began in the front of the basement of W. H. Gass' shoe store, and was discovered by Charles Grafton who turned in the alarm about 6:30 p.m.

The Diamond fire of last week began about 4:30 p. m., but an alarm was not sounded until after 5. No fire edition was published at 6 a.m. the next day, but extensive coverage was devoted to the conflagration in The Review's regular afternoon edition.

In the course of the contest, Danny correctly spelled cuticle, diploma, disrupt, embryo, erroneous and evangelist, the word finally misspelled by Kristie, and facsimile to clinch the championship. Kristie correctly spelled decision, disciple, efficiency and epidemic before turning evangelist into "evangelous."

IN ADDITION to Danny and Kristie, among building champions participating in the bee were Lynn Headley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Headley of 1731 Commerce St., a fifth-grader at Garfield, and Martha Hanlon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hanlon of 1758 Clark Ave., a fifth-grader at Fairview.

Trophies were presented the three winners and other building champions by William Ferrall, president of the Board of Education.

After 40 minutes of the words pronounced by the Rev. James Sanko of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church, 16 of the original 38 contestants remained. It required 35 more minutes to determine the winners.

The judges were Mrs. Hazel Fraser, Mrs. Isabel R. Hart and Mrs. Maxwell West.

John Mackov, principal of MacDonald School, was in charge of the contest.

Cleveland lawyer Howard M. Metzenbaum, Ohio co-chairman of the Gilligan campaign, said speakers must be brought into local union meetings to give members the facts about Lausche and his record.

"You must see that Gilligan wins and Lausche is sent back as the lobbyist of the American Association of Railroads and not as a U.S. Senator, "Metzenbaum said.

sion's headquarters near Pleiku with its units operating around Kontum and Dak To.

Just 17 hours later guerrillas ambushed a 30-vehicle convoy nine miles northeast of Saigon, on the highway to the big military base at Long Binh.

The U.S. Command said one American soldier and one enemy soldier were killed, and damage to the trucks was light, but the ambush underlined the threat from roving guerrilla bands operating in Saigon's suburbs.

At Khe Sanh, the 14th anniversary of the start of the siege of Dien Bien Phu passed with enemy gunners hitting the U.S. Marine combat base with a below-average barrage of 200 shells Wednesday. Casualties among the 7,000 Allied defenders of the base in northwestern South Vietnam were as usual described as light.

Because of similarities between the situation at Dien Bien Phu and at Khe Sanh, there had been speculation that Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the North Vietnamese defense minister, might mark the anniversary with a show of force against the besieged base. Giap directed the 56-day siege of Dien Bien Phu that ended May 7, 1954, with the capitulation of the French.

The U.S. Marine command at Khe Sanh considers that the siege there began 54 days ago with the attack Jan. 21 on the base and Khe Sanh village. "We are prepared much better now than we were in January," said a spokesman.

U.S. bombers hit the estimated 20,000 North Vietnamese troops surrounding Khe Sanh Wednesday with five raids. The B52s also flew missions against enemy concentrations northwest of Dak To, in the central highlands, and in the A Shau Valley.

At the eastern end of the demilitarized zone, fighting tapered off around Dong Ha, the U.S. Marine base near the coast. The only action reported there Wednesday was a clash between U.S. Marines and North Vietnamese units six miles north of Dong Ha. Fire History Repeats behind which hid the can from sight. However, it was decided to first take out the pillar, and the can was spotted.

Copies of the Union Volunteer, published July 10, 1863; The Ohio Patriot, published at New Lisbon Nov. 1, 1883, and War Cry, the official gazette of the Salvation Army in the United States, published Oct. 7, 1905, are included, along with a shoe donated by R. W. Sample, who operated a store, "R. W. Sample & Co., Shoes and Fine Footwear, 230 Diamond, East Liverpool, Ohio."

A note, found stuffed in the toe of the shoe reads as follows:

"Oct. 10, 1905,

"This shoe is in good style for the present day. What we would say an up-to-date one. The stamp on lining is the union stamp. Very much in evidence at the present time.

"R. W. Sample"

—:—

THE CAN, the bottom of which is nearly rusted through, also contained political "calling cards" announcing the candidacies of the following for public office:

Charles H. Risinger for board of public service; William H. Griggs, same; Robert M. Newell, same; C. W. Powell, for constable; James H. Grafton, for mayor, whose stated platform was: "A business administration;" W. V. Blake, for mayor, "A Square Deal for every man; no more, no less;" Thomas Cannon for Council — Fourth Ward (second term); Dr. R. J. Marshall for mayor; Jake Shenkel for board of public service; R. L. Edmonston for board of public service.

Blake won the Republican nomination that year. It was the first primary election ever held; a state law requiring them had just been passed.

R. W. Sample's son, Robert Sample of W. 6th St., said his father moved into a store site where Roberts Jewelers was located until last week's fire. Sample said his father operated the store there from 1898 until the 1905 fire, moved back into the store when the Smith-Fowler building was rebuilt and stayed there until 1914, when he moved his business to 422 Market St. where Fleming's Confectionery had been located and Bloor's Pharmacy currently is situated.

In the Fowler building with Sample's father was the Huebner and Webber Drugstore and the Yates Novelty Store. Both Huebner's and Yates' were situated in the portion of the building which housed the Siff Shoe store.

S. C. DYKE of the Electric Porcelain Co. of East Liverpool, makers of high grade vitreous porcelain, included his business card in the can.

So did J. Edwin McClure, secretary of the Buckeye Club. But, he also included a key to the one-time posh club which was located in the Fowler building for many years. The card and key were enclosed in an envelope from the club marked by McClure, "For Box to be put in corner stone of the New Fowler Building."

A note from the son of a state senator read as follows: "Harold Fowler Blake, Age 11 years, son of Senator W. V. Blake." It was written carefully on stationery of the Ohio General Assembly and enclosed in a similar envelope.

Harold Blake was a brother of Perc R. Blake, who for many years was associated with the Riggs Co. He is retired.

Business forms of the times were shown with an invoice of Thomas Marran, "Wholesale confectioner, tobacco and cigars, teas, coffees, baking powders and spices, No. 233 Diamond, Geo. Peach's Old Stand."

The invoice along with the Union Volunteer newspaper printed at Louisville, Ky., were donated by Peach. The newspaper describes the Union victory at Gettysburg and Vicksburg during the Civil War.

The fire which destroyed the old Fowller building and caused the new one to be erected in 1905, took the life of one "daring young fireman."

THE ACCOUNT of the fatality read:

"The only fatality resulting from the fire occurred this morning (March 1, 1905) at about 2:25 o'clock when Bert Swearingen, of the East End, a volunteer fireman, was crushed under a falling wall. The young man was in company of Will Torrence, son of Capt. Will Torrence of the East End.

"Swearingen, who is one of the best known young men of the city, was on the scene of the fire early in the evening and many times placed himself in great danger through his willingness to help. He was warned by the regular firemen to stay away and not be so daring, but he persisted in fighting the fire and once volunteered to go down into the cellar under the Boston store while it was filled with dense smoke. Had he vnetured into it, death would have been certain.

"Being personally acquainted with Will Torrence, he was allowed to help hold the nozzle of a hose and it was while doing this that he met death. Both young men were standing in front of the wall of the Gass shoe store (where the blaze began), with the nozzle in their hands, when the wall cracked and started to fall.

"Torrence ran back in haste, but Swearingen was not fast enough and was caught under the terrible weight. His head was crushed, and he died instantly. He was knocked down into the cellar and his body was recovered by Officer Clifford Dawson. The body was taken to the store of Z. B. Kinsey, and Dr. A. B. Ogden was called, but the young man was past all medical aid. The remains were turned over to Undertaker McQuilkin.

"SWEARINGEN was about 20 years old and was the son of Mrs. Swearingen who lives in Pittsburg. His sister died a few months ago as a result of falling from a trestle near Harker's pottery. He has been employed in a local pottery and boarded with a relative at Ralston's Crossing."

The electric lights were turned off early when the fire broke out, and "at the Ceramic theatre the superb play, 'The Sign of the Cross,' was presented to a large house under most unusual and somewhat primitive conditions.

"The building has not yet been equipped for gas illumination, and when the electricity was turned off oil lamps and candles were resorted to. The stage was not as brilliant as usual, but the play went off very well, everything considered."

Firemen later said the blaze began in the front of the basement of W. H. Gass' shoe store, and was discovered by Charles Grafton who turned in the alarm about 6:30 p.m.

The Diamond fire of last week began about 4:30 p. m., but an alarm was not sounded until after 5. No fire edition was published at 6 a.m. the next day, but extensive coverage was devoted to the conflagration in The Review's regular afternoon edition.

LISBON — Mt. Nebo Grange met Wednesday night with Howard Wilhelm, lecturer, giving a program for the 21 adults, and Mrs. Wilhelm, junior matron, in charge of the 11 young people.

He announced there will be a seed and bulb exchange at the next meeting. A coverdish supper will follow.

The juniors voted to conduct the opening and closing for "County Junior Night" June 10 at Butler Grange. A scavenger hunt and snake race followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Orren Boehm served refreshments.

and Mrs. Fred Lanam of Crews Rd., Hillcrest, and Dorma, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dorman Stock of 1625 Clark Ave.

Danny and Kristie battled it out for four rounds before he emerged the victor.

In the course of the contest, Danny correctly spelled cuticle, diploma, disrupt, embryo, erroneous and evangelist, the word finally misspelled by Kristie, and facsimile to clinch the championship. Kristie correctly spelled decision, disciple, efficiency and epidemic before turning evangelist into "evangelous."

—:—

IN ADDITION to Danny and Kristie, among building champions participating in the bee were Lynn Headley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Headley of 1731 Commerce St., a fifth-grader at Garfield, and Martha Hanlon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hanlon of 1758 Clark Ave., a fifth-grader at Fairview.

Trophies were presented the three winners and other building champions by William Ferrall, president of the Board of Education.

After 40 minutes of the words pronounced by the Rev. James Sanko of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church, 16 of the original 38 contestants remained. It required 35 more minutes to determine the winners.

The judges were Mrs. Hazel Fraser, Mrs. Isabel R. Hart and Mrs. Maxwell West.

John Mackov, principal of MacDonald School, was in charge of the contest.

AFL-CIO Group Urged To Support Gilligan

CLEVELAND (AP) —Delegates to the Cleveland AFL — CIO Federation of Labor were urged Wednesday night to rally their forces and work for the victory of Cincinnati Councilman John J. Gilligan over U.S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche in the May Democratic primary.

Cleveland lawyer Howard M. Metzenbaum, Ohio co-chairman of the Gilligan campaign, said speakers must be brought into local union meetings to give members the facts about Lausche and his record.

"You must see that Gilligan wins and Lausche is sent back as the lobbyist of the American Association of Railroads and not as a U.S. Senator, "Metzenbaum said.

sion's headquarters near Pleiku with its units operating around Kontum and Dak To.

Just 17 hours later guerrillas ambushed a 30-vehicle convoy nine miles northeast of Saigon, on the highway to the big military base at Long Binh.

The U.S. Command said one American soldier and one enemy soldier were killed, and damage to the trucks was light, but the ambush underlined the threat from roving guerrilla bands operating in Saigon's suburbs.

At Khe Sanh, the 14th anniversary of the start of the siege of Dien Bien Phu passed with enemy gunners hitting the U.S. Marine combat base with a below-average barrage of 200 shells Wednesday. Casualties among the 7,000 Allied defenders of the base in northwestern South Vietnam were as usual described as light.

Because of similarities between the situation at Dien Bien Phu and at Khe Sanh, there had been speculation that Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the North Vietnamese defense minister, might mark the anniversary with a show of force against the besieged base. Giap directed the 56-day siege of Dien Bien Phu that ended May 7, 1954, with the capitulation of the French.

The U.S. Marine command at Khe Sanh considers that the siege there began 54 days ago with the attack Jan. 21 on the base and Khe Sanh village. "We are prepared much better now than we were in January," said a spokesman.

U.S. bombers hit the estimated 20,000 North Vietnamese troops surrounding Khe Sanh Wednesday with five raids. The B52s also flew missions against enemy concentrations northwest of Dak To, in the central highlands, and in the A Shau Valley.

At the eastern end of the demilitarized zone, fighting tapered off around Dong Ha, the U.S. Marine base near the coast. The only action reported there Wednesday was a clash between U.S. Marines and North Vietnamese units six miles north of Dong Ha. The Marines, who had killed 35 enemy soldiers in the same area the day before, reported killing 30 more Wednesday. One Leatherneck was killed and 33 were wounded.

The DOCTOR Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

From time to time some new drug is hailed as a cancer cure. So far, all such claims have proved false and for a very good reason. Cancer is not a single disease and when a cure is found, it will probably be effective against only one or two types of cancer. Some persons have the mistaken idea that doctors don't want a cancer cure and would try to discredit one if it were found.

Dr. Brandstadt

THIS IS the sheerest nonsense as, whenever a treatment of proven worth is found for any disease, the doctors can't wait to give it to their patients. Some doctors keep a list of patients with incurable diseases and assure them that as soon as any worth-while drug is found that might benefit them they will call the patients in so that they can get it without delay.

—:—

DOCTORS have already tried a large number of new drugs for such malignant conditions as leukemia and Hodgkin's disease which, even though they are not curative, have given the victims added years of comparative comfort. Those who say that doctors will accept a new drug only if it is discovered by another doctor forget that doctors were quick to accept reserpine derived from the Rauwolfia of Hindu folk medicine and ephedrine from the unschooled "medicine men" of China.

—:—

AT THIS VERY moment our large drug houses are sending explorers into remote lands to learn the secrets of native herb doctors and other primitive healers.

—:—

FAMOUS QUACKS often come up with alleged cures for cancer and other diseases. That they are quacks is shown by the fact that when they die their secret dies with them, whereas, when a worthy medical discovery is made, the discoverer gives it freely to the world. To cite a single example, Sir Alexander Fleming gave the world the life - saving antibiotic, penicillin.

—:—

ONE OF THE difficulties in testing any new drug in human cancer patients is the fact that such a long time (at least five years) must elapse after an apparent cure before one can say that the danger of a recurrence has passed. Another difficulty is that a few victims of cancer succeed in building up an immunity to their disease. If this event coincides with the testing of a worthless drug the drug may get the credit for a cure it did not accomplish or even contribute to.

—:—

MODERN DRUGS are now first tested on cultures of cancer cells. If the drug shows promise, it is tested on mice with different types of malignancy. If these tests appear to be successful, tests with very small doses in human subjects must be made to see whether the drug is toxic to normal cells. If not, then and only then can it be tried on patients with cancer.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The woman who lives next door has a long nose which she loves to stick in other people's business. I've disliked this woman ever since I was a little girl.

I've been married for more than a year and am about eight weeks pregnant. Every time Mrs. Long Nose sees me she pats my stomach and says, "Anything in the oven yet?"

She makes me so mad I'd like to belt her in the mouth. Yesterday when she pulled that "oven bit" I managed, miraculously, to keep my temper and say sweetly, "No, nothing. . . ."

Soon I'll have to tell people I'm expecting but I want to do it in my own way, and not be backed into a corner by a nosy neighbor.

How can I avoid answering a direct question? — BURNED.

Dear B.: You are under no obligation to answer personal questions. Simply evade the question by saying, "When I'm ready to make an announcement, you'll know." Then change the subject.

The Forgotten

Dear Ann: I work in a nursing home and there are some wonderful old folks out here. The Christmas holidays are the happiest time of the year because plants and flowers and gifts and cards and visitors come pouring in. Everyone's in a good mood. The ailing seem to perk up and we have fewer patients confined to their beds at Christmas than at any other time.

But the holiday spirit soon wears off and this is what I'm writing about. Why don't children whose parents are in nursing homes give a moment's thought to these folks during the other 11 months of the year? If it weren't for Christmas and Mother's Day it's as if nobody knows they're alive.

One frail little woman who has three sons and a daughter living within 40 miles of here has been re-reading the same two letters since last August. The whole family piles in on Christmas Day and then she doesn't see or hear from anyone until her birthday — seven months later.

I feel so sorry for this sweet old woman that I have asked my own children to visit her.

If I see this letter in print I will feel better. Thank you. — CHICAGO.

-:-

Dear Chi.: So will I, and here it is. Guilty sons and daughters might feel worse, however, but if they get the message, that's all right with me.

Uncomplimentary

Dear Ann: Whenever we go out to a party my wife has the idea I should spend the whole evening entertaining her. If I should walk off for five minutes to talk to someone she gets a hurt expression on her face. Then she's upset the remainder of the night and nobody has a good time.

When we got home last night she gave me a long lecture on how it looks to other people when a man ignores his own wife and plays up to younger women. Bla bla bla bla. . . .

Finally I walked into the other room and started to read the paper. She came in after me, grabbed the paper out of my hand and shouted, "You deserve a wife like Ann Landers."

What do you think she meant by that? — FEET OF CLAY.

Dear Feet: Under the circumstances I don't think her remark was much of a compliment to either of us. But I'll forgive her if you will.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Nixon Saving 'Big Guns' If He Wins Nomination

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says the reason he is not ready to spell out the details of his plan to end the war in Vietnam is because he is reserving his "big guns" for use against President Johnson if he wins the Republican presidential nomination.

"I have to adapt my strategy so as to win the (presidential) primaries with the least expenditure of ammunition," Nixon said. "I am reserving my big guns for use against Johnson."

The former vice president discussed this and other questions in an interview in his Fifth Avenue apartment in New York.

In campaigning for the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries, Nixon repeatedly said, "We will end the war in Vietnam and win the peace in the Pacific."

Asked if he intends this as a pledge, Nixon replied emphatically, "It's a pledge."

He added, "I have no magic formula, no gimmick. If I had a gimmick I would tell Lyndon Johnson. That would be a moral obligation.

"But I do have some specific ideas on how to end the war. They are primarily in the diplomatic area."

He said he considers the chances "60 to 40 against" the possibility that the North Vietnamese will agree to come to the conference table before the national elections next November.

With regard to his own actions in the campaigning, Nixon said: "I'm not going to carry on my conscience anything that will destroy that 40 per cent chance."

Nixon has gone to South Vietnam several times in recent years. He published an article in the quarterly, Foreign Affairs, entitled "Asia after Vietnam." He said he believes that one reason he is now considered the front-runner for the GOP nomination is he has concentrated on studying foreign affairs.

"A man becomes a serious contender or candidate only when events fit what he has to offer," Nixon said. "In my case, I think the fact that the foreign policy issue became predominant again—and I could travel abroad and speak with some authority on it—that raised me above the others."

If domestic problems, not the war in Vietnam, were predominant today, Nixon said, "I don't think there would have been a tendency to look to me. I think the tendency would have been to go to what has been called 'those who manage the cities and states.'"

In that case, he continued, Gov. George Romney of Michigan would have been in a stronger position to make the race for the presidency.

Nixon said Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York "has some expertise" in foreign policy, "but he himself has taken the veil."

He referred to the fact that Rockefeller has not stated his views on Vietnam in recent months.

Nixon repeated his assertion that if Rockefeller wants the GOP nomination he must enter and win some primaries. Rockefeller, long asserting that he is not a candidate, has said he will decide within 10 days whether to permit his name to remain on the ballot in the Oregon primary, May 28.

In 1964, the governor won over Sen. Barry Goldwater in the Oregon primary.

Bell Workers Back Strike For Benefits

Members of the Communications Workers of America Local in Columbiana and five other counties voted Wednesday 5 to 1 to authorize a strike backing wage requests in current negotiations with the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., a union spokesman said today.

All the locals in the CWA in Ohio have until Saturday to submit results of the voting on strike authorization for the union negotiators, Richard Kevan, local steward, said.

The union is seeking upgrading of the salary classification for employes in East Liverpool and Wellsville among other wage and benefit charges.

Blaine Riggs of Uhrichsville, president of the local, has termed the offers from Ohio Bell "inadequate and improperly distributed."

Kevan said the vote results tabulated at a meeting last night at Cadiz indicated a 5-to-1 support of a strike if the negotiating team cannot work out a settlement.

Church Brotherhood Makes Contributions

A contribution of $50 to the Easter fund was approved when the Men's Brotherhood of the Chester First Christian Church met Wednesday night in Memorial Hall.

Members also voted a $5 donation for the Burgettstown Church of Christ.

Albert Kell presided. Forrest McDonald offered prayer.

Refreshments were served by Clarence Mountjoy and Kell.

The next meeting will be April 10 at the church.

Dear Chi.: So will I, and here it is. Guilty sons and daughters might feel worse, however, but if they get the message, that's all right with me.

Uncomplimentary

Dear Ann: Whenever we go out to a party my wife has the idea I should spend the whole evening entertaining her. If I should walk off for five minutes to talk to someone she gets a hurt expression on her face. Then she's upset the remainder of the night and nobody has a good time.

When we got home last night she gave me a long lecture on how it looks to other people when a man ignores his own wife and plays up to younger women. Bla bla bla bla. . . .

Finally I walked into the other room and started to read the paper. She came in after me, grabbed the paper out of my hand and shouted, "You deserve a wife like Ann Landers."

What do you think she meant by that? — FEET OF CLAY.

Dear Feet: Under the circumstances I don't think her remark was much of a compliment to either of us. But I'll forgive her if you will.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Nixon Saving 'Big Guns' If He Wins Nomination

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says the reason he is not ready to spell out the details of his plan to end the war in Vietnam is because he is reserving his "big guns" for use against President Johnson if he wins the Republican presidential nomination.

"I have to adapt my strategy so as to win the (presidential) primaries with the least expenditure of ammunition," Nixon said. "I am reserving my big guns for use against Johnson."

The former vice president discussed this and other questions in an interview in his Fifth Avenue apartment in New York.

In campaigning for the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries, Nixon repeatedly said, "We will end the war in Vietnam and win the peace in the Pacific."

Asked if he intends this as a pledge, Nixon replied emphatically, "It's a pledge."

He added, "I have no magic formula, no gimmick. If I had a gimmick I would tell Lyndon Johnson. That would be a moral obligation.

"But I do have some specific ideas on how to end the war. They are primarily in the diplomatic area."

He said he considers the chances "60 to 40 against" the possibility that the North Vietnamese will agree to come to the conference table before the national elections next November.

With regard to his own actions in the campaigning, Nixon said: "I'm not going to carry on my conscience anything that will destroy that 40 per cent chance."

Nixon has gone to South Vietnam several times in recent years. He published an article in the quarterly, Foreign Affairs, entitled "Asia after Vietnam." He said he believes that one reason he is now considered the front-runner for the GOP nomination is he has concentrated on studying foreign affairs.

"A man becomes a serious contender or candidate only when events fit what he has to offer," Nixon said. "In my case, I think the fact that the foreign policy issue became predominant again—and I could travel abroad and speak with some authority on it—that raised me above the others."

If domestic problems, not the war in Vietnam, were predominant today, Nixon said, "I don't think there would have been a tendency to look to me. I think the tendency would have been to go to what has been called 'those who manage the cities and states.'"

In that case, he continued, Gov. George Romney of Michigan would have been in a stronger position to make the race for the presidency.

Nixon said Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York "has some expertise" in foreign policy, "but he himself has taken the veil."

He referred to the fact that Rockefeller has not stated his views on Vietnam in recent months.

Nixon repeated his assertion that if Rockefeller wants the GOP nomination he must enter and win some primaries. Rockefeller, long asserting that he is not a candidate, has said he will decide within 10 days whether to permit his name to remain on the ballot in the Oregon primary, May 28.

In 1964, the governor won over Sen. Barry Goldwater in the Oregon primary.

Chamber Given Aide's Report On Midland Project

Ed Bishoff, retail committee chairman for the Midland Area Chamber of Commerce, reported on a future sales promotion at a meeting of the Chamber Wednesday night at the McGeehan Agency.

Directors disscussed a membership drive with Dave Silverman as chairman of the committee in charge.

Earl Rankin, chairman of the street lighting committee, said he has been making contacts for the purchase of new decorations for the lighting for Christmas.

Anthony Martell, vice president, was in charge. Bills totaling $200 were paid. The Chamber will meet April 10.

Wellsville Group Sets Ball April 5

Plans were completed for the military ball April 5 when the Wellsville Band Parents met Monday night in Daw Junior High School.

Band members will sell candy bars Saturday to help raise funds for new uniforms.

Robert Westcott, band director, expressed thanks to Henry Gooch, Kenny Carter and American Legion Post 70 for their help with the drill team.

Mrs. Mary Bender, Mrs. Jean Reed and Mrs. Ethel Clark were appointed as a nominating committee by Kenneth DeLauder, president.

The next meeting will be April 8.

Bell Workers Back Strike For Benefits

Members of the Communications Workers of America Local in Columbiana and five other counties voted Wednesday 5 to 1 to authorize a strike backing wage requests in current negotiations with the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., a union spokesman said today.

All the locals in the CWA in Ohio have until Saturday to submit results of the voting on strike authorization for the union negotiators, Richard Kevan, local steward, said.

The union is seeking upgrading of the salary classification for employes in East Liverpool and Wellsville among other wage and benefit charges.

Blaine Riggs of Uhrichsville, president of the local, has termed the offers from Ohio Bell "inadequate and improperly distributed."

Kevan said the vote results tabulated at a meeting last night at Cadiz indicated a 5-to-1 support of a strike if the negotiating team cannot work out a settlement.

Church Brotherhood Makes Contributions

A contribution of $50 to the Easter fund was approved when the Men's Brotherhood of the Chester First Christian Church met Wednesday night in Memorial Hall.

Members also voted a $5 donation for the Burgettstown Church of Christ.

Albert Kell presided. Forrest McDonald offered prayer.

Refreshments were served by Clarence Mountjoy and Kell.

The next meeting will be April 10 at the church.

Springfield's Kennedy Northeastern 'A' Player Of Year

Sports Whirled

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

Steubenville College had a losing record in basketball this past season, something uncommon for the Barons.

The last previous losing campaign was 1952-53. Between that season and this the Barons won 250 games and lost 101.

One of the successful coaches at Steubenville was Hank Kuzma of Midland. One year, when Kuzma had posted a very fine record, Steubenville had a "feeler" from the NIT. The gist of the "feeler" was, "If you can sell 5,000 tickets, you'll be invited." Steubenville was not invited.

There probably was no such string attached to the invitation of Southern Illinois last season. The Salukis were the first small college team to play in the NIT, and they won. LIU, playing in the NIT this season, is, like Southern Illinois, ranked number one among small colleges. But the Blackbirds have a tougher row to hoe, and meet Bradley in the first round. Still, Southern Illinois beat Duke in the opener last year.

There is only one Top 10 team in the tourney, Duke. The Blue Devils were invited despite not making the Atlantic Coast Conference finals and despite their poor performance in last year's NIT. The selection committee must have figured that Duke's 12-10 loss to North Carolina State was a fluke, which it was.

WITTENBERG WON the first annual Ohio Wesleyan Faculty Invitational Basketball Tournament Saturday by beating Oberlin 46-33. Kenyon and the host school were the other squads in the affair.

PHIL OTT, a 6-2, 220 tackle and linebacker from Portsmouth, has signed to enroll at Pitt next year. Ott made all-Ohio at tackle.

THREE OF THE teams in the Columbus Regionals are from the same league. Newark, Zanesville and Marietta are all members of the Central Ohio League, but all competed in different districts and all won. Columbus East, the other team in the regional, is favored to win, however.

LEE PATRONE, former West Virginia star cager, proved he hasn't lost the touch by scoring 43 points to lead the Wintersville faculty to a 92-91 win over the Wintersville varsity.

Marshall, St. Peter's Kick Off NIT Tonight

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP)—The Duke Blue Devils hope to erase the disastrous memory of last year in the opening college basketball doubleheader tonight of the 31st National Invitation Tournament.

The Blue Devils, 10th ranked nationally in the final Associated Press poll of the season, take the court against high-scoring Oklahoma City in the second game of the twinbill. Marshall and St. Peter's of New Jersey meet in the first game.

The Blue Devils, who were not sure until last Sunday night they would get a second chance in the NIT as the Atlantic Coast Conference representative, failed in their first try last year. They lost in their first game to Southern Illinois, the eventual champion, 72-63.

Duke, 21-5, brings back third team All-American Mike Lewis, who averaged 24 points and 15 rebounds this season. Oklahoma City, 20-6, relies on honorable mention All-American Rich Travis, a 30-point average scorer.

Marshall, 17-7, and St. Peter's, 22-2, each will try to improve on last year's NIT performances.

Marshall, led by George Stone's long jump shots and 23.4-point game average, has visions of bettering its surprising fourth-place finish of 1967. St. Peter's, led by Elnardo Webster's 24.7 average, was routed by Southern Illinois last year 103-58.

Another doubleheader Friday and four games on Saturday complete the first round of the 16-team field.

On Friday, Temple meets Kansas and Villanova opposes Wyoming. Saturday afternoon Army plays Notre Dame and Long Island goes against Bradley. Saturday night it will be Duquesne vs. Fordham and Dayton vs. West Virginia.

The NIT opening headlines the college basketball tournament scene tonight. The second round of the NCAA tournament for the national championship is not scheduled until Friday night at four regional sites.

The small college boys were busy Wednesday night with the quarter-finals in the NCAA college division tourney at Evansville, Ind., and the second round in the NAIA tourney at Kansas City.

At Evansville, Ashland, Ohio, beat Cheyney State 45-30, Indiana State downed Nevada Southern 94-75, Kentucky Wesleyan defeated American International 99-78 and Trinity, Tex., whipped Evansville 93-77.

Westminster, Pa., edged Monmouth, N.J., 70-69, Fairmont, W.Va., thumped New Haven 97-72, Eastern Michigan took Hanover 94-81 and Central Washington defeated Alcorn A&M 85-70 in the NAIA at Kansas City.

In the other second-round games, Central State, Ohio, conquered Valdosta State 60-53, Drury humbled Northeastern Oklahoma 85-69, Dickinson, N.D., squeaked by St. Cloud State 70-68 and Oshkosh State beat Eastern Montana 82-75.

Royals Beat Supersonics, Trail Pistons By 1 Game

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Royals are live, but the Baltimore Bullets are dying.

By beating Seattle 142-123 Wednesday night, the Royals remained one game behind idle Detroit in the fight for the National Basketball Association's final Eastern Division playoff spot.

But when the Bullets were beaten 100-96 by the lowly Chicago Bulls, they fell 2½ games behind the Pistons and their playoff hopes were reduced to prayers for a miracle.

And what miracles it will have to be. Baltimore has four games left: two with Boston, two with Philadelphia. Winning three of those plus a sudden collapse by both the Royals and Pistons is what is needed.

In other NBA games, New York beat Philadelphia 130-120; Los Angeles clinched second place in the West by clubbing San Francisco 142-106 and Boston crushed San Diego 144-118.

Detroit has five games left — two with Los Angeles, and one each with San Francisco, Seattle and Boston — while Cincinnati has three left — with St. Louis, Philadelphia and New York.

Seattle closed to within one point of Cincinnati in the third period, but Tom Van Arsdale and Bill Dinwiddie led a spurt that kept the Royals comfortably ahead. Oscar Robertson scored 36 points while Bob Rule had 40 for the Sonics.

John Havlicek's 34 points for Boston helped send San Diego to its 12th straight loss.

Penguins Lose To Hawks, Lose Ground In Race

The National Hockey League countdown still is in progress but the Boston Bruins have had the New York Rangers' number all season.

They proved it again Wednesday night with a 2-1 victory that left the two teams tied for second place in the East Division, one point ahead of fourth-place Chicago, which edged Pittsburgh 4-3.

In other Wednesday night action:

Philadelphia opened up a three-point lead over second-place Los Angeles in the West Division with a 4-2 triumph over Minnesota.

St. Louis and Toronto fought to a 3-3 tie, leaving the third-place Blues four points behind Philadelphia and bringing the Maple Leafs closer to playoff elimination.

Detroit beat Oakland 4-2 in a battle for division cellar-dwellers.

Johnny Bucyk's 30th goal of the season with 4½ minutes to play provided the Boston victory, although the Bruins were outshot 40-22. Boston's Ed Westfall and New York's Jim Neilson had traded second-period goals, Westfall's coming with his team shorthanded.

Philadelphia rammed three second-period goals past Minnesota's Cesare Maniago, who was playing with a broken jaw. It was only the fourth victory in 14 games for the slumping Flyers and all four have come against the North Stars.

Toronto, trailing St. Louis 3-2, pulled goalie Bruce Gamble with a minute to play and it paid off when newly acquired Paul Henderson scored the tying goal with 26 seconds left. Jim Roberts scored twice for the Blues, including a breakaway goal with his team a man short.

A four-goal comeback in the third period lifted Detroit to victory after Oakland had forged ahead 2-0 in the opening stanza. Bruce MacGregor, Kent Douglas, Alex Delvecchio and Pete Mahovlich produced the Wings' goals while Larry Popein and Ted Hampson scored for the Seals, who absorbed their fifth straight setback.

Bando Slams 2 For A's

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sal Bando is making it hard for the Oakland Athletics to send him to Vancouver. And Bob Schellenberg is making it hard for the Philadelphia Phillies to keep him in oblivion.

Bando smacked two homers in Oakland's 4-1 victory over the New York Yankees in their exhibition baseball game Wednesday. That makes four homers for the young third baseman in two games.

Bando hit only nine homers all last year in 116 games with the Athletics' Vancouver farm club. In 41 contests with the big league club he went homerless.

Schellenberg's story is something else again. His grand-slam homer Wednesday was the big blow in the Phillies' 8-0 triumph over Houston. It was his second time at bat during the spring, his second homer and raised his RBI total to seven.

In his first time up Sunday, Schellenberg, who isn't even on the Phillies' roster, hit a three-run homer.

In other games Wednesday, Cleveland edged San Francisco 6-5, the Chicago Cubs took California 5-4, St. Louis beat Detroit 6-2, Washington nudged Minnesota 5-4 and Los Angeles outlasted the New York Mets 3-2.

Also, the Chicago White Sox blanked Pittsburgh 4-0, Baltimore beat Atlanta 2-1 and Cincinnati beat Boston 5-3 in 10 innings.

Bando drove in all the Athletics' runs with a three-run homer in the first inning and a solo shot in the eighth. Jim Bouton pitched four hitless innings for the Yankees, extending his hitless streak to eight innings.

Woody Fryman, who allowed two hits in four innings, Larry Colton, who gave up no hits in three innings, and Jeff James combined for the shutout for the Phillies.

Cleveland caught the Giants in a hurry on Duke Sims' grand-slam homer in the eighth and finally won in the ninth on a double and a pair of sacrifices.

Adolfo Phillips, who had three hits for the Cubs, came up with a big one in the 10th, a single that drove in the winning run. Ted Savage had four hits for Chicago.

Phil Gagliano's two doubles paced an 11-hit attack that beat Detroit for the Cardinals. Bob Gibson and Steve Carlton handcuffed the Tigers on one hit for the first six innings.

Washington's victory, its fourth straight, came when Frank Coggins was walked in the bottom of the 10th, forcing in Bernie Allen with the winning tally.

Wes Parker drove in one run and scored another for the Dodgers who got four strong innings of pitching from Claude Osteen.

Jack Fisher, Gary Peters, Hoyt Wilhelm and Wilbur Wood held Pittsburgh scoreless while Tommy Davis cracked out three hits for the White Sox.

Don Buford's single in the 11th inning sent home the winning run for the Orioles. It was Baltimore's third straight extra-inning game.

Tommy Helms' two-run single with two out in the 10th was the margin of victory for the Reds who have now won five of their last six games. Tony Perez homered for Cincinnati.

Lamonica Leading AFL Passer

NEW YORK (AP) — Daryle Lamonica, who led the Oakland Raiders to their first American Football League championship last season, was the No. 1 passer in the league.

Official statistics released today showed Lamonica, who gained 3,228 yards through the air, ranked No. 1 ahead of Kansas City's Len Dawson, the 1966 leader.

Lamonica threw for 30 touchdowns, tops in the league, and completed 220 of 425 attempts.

Dawson led in competition percentage with 57.7 while New York's Joe Namath finished third with the most completions, 258, most yards gained, 4,007, and most average yards gained, 8.16.

Idle Pipers Clinch ABA Title

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pipers won the Eastern Division championship of the American Basketball Association without even getting into uniform.

The Pipers backed into the title when the second-place Minnesota Muskies were beaten by the Indiana Pacers 116-106 at Indianapolis Wednesday night.

The Pipers have three regular season games left, but they can lose all of them and still finish ahead of the Muskies. The Pipers announced they have tentatively scheduled the first game of their best-of-5 playoff series with Indiana at Pittsburgh March 25.

Indiana clinched its third-place playoff spot by defeating the Muskies. Jim Rayl and Reggie Harding combined for 60 points for the Pacers, who made it 10 in a row on their home court at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Rayl and Harding each scored 30 points. Mel Daniels led Minnesota with 20.

New Jersey, battling for the fourth and last playoff spot in the East, defeated Denver 98-97 at Teaneck, N.J., in the only other ABA game scheduled. The victory gave the fourth-place New Jersey club a two-game lead over last place Kentucky with three road games left to play.

Free throws by Mel Nowell and Hank Whitney broke an 83-83 tie in the last three minutes and put New Jersey ahead for good. Bob Lloyd's 26 points paced the winners. Larry Jones topped Denver with 22.

Midland Advances In Tourney

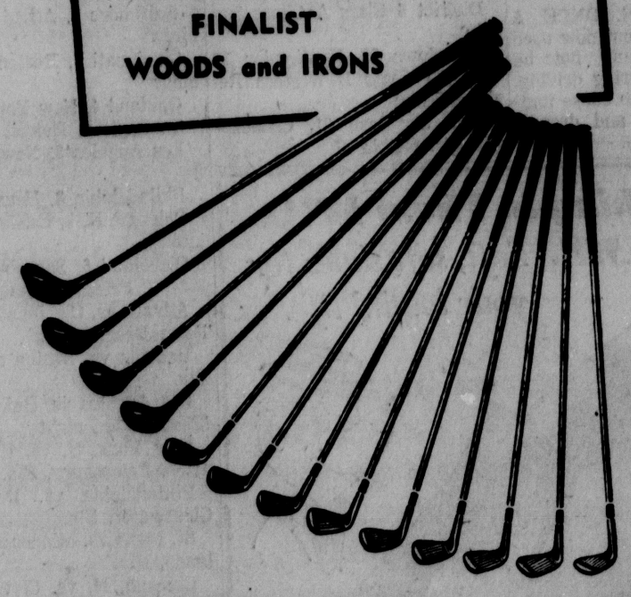

Midland advanced in the Hopewell undergrad basketball tournament last night with a 51-49 win over Neshannock.

Greg Vanlier led the winners with 15 points, while George Green, only a freshman, added 13. Ken Bauder had 20 for the losers.

Midland meets Center at 6:45 in a quarter semi - final game tonight. In other action last night New Brighton beat Coraopolis 65-41 and Rochester topped Beaver Falls 60-46.

Springfield's Kennedy Northeastern 'A' Player Of Year

Sports Whirled

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

Steubenville College had a losing record in basketball this past season, something uncommon for the Barons.

The last previous losing campaign was 1952-53. Between that season and this the Barons won 250 games and lost 101.

One of the successful coaches at Steubenville was Hank Kuzma of Midland. One year, when Kuzma had posted a very fine record, Steubenville had a "feeler" from the NIT. The gist of the "feeler" was, "If you can sell 5,000 tickets, you'll be invited." Steubenville was not invited.

There probably was no such string attached to the invitation of Southern Illinois last season. The Salukis were the first small college team to play in the NIT, and they won. LIU, playing in the NIT this season, is, like Southern Illinois, ranked number one among small colleges. But the Blackbirds have a tougher row to hoe, and meet Bradley in the first round. Still, Southern Illinois beat Duke in the opener last year.

There is only one Top 10 team in the tourney, Duke. The Blue Devils were invited despite not making the Atlantic Coast Conference finals and despite their poor performance in last year's NIT. The selection committee must have figured that Duke's 12-10 loss to North Carolina State was a fluke, which it was.

WITTENBERG WON the first annual Ohio Wesleyan Faculty Invitational Basketball Tournament Saturday by beating Oberlin 46-33. Kenyon and the host school were the other squads in the affair.

PHIL OTT, a 6-2, 220 tackle and linebacker from Portsmouth, has signed to enroll at Pitt next year. Ott made all-Ohio at tackle.

THREE OF THE teams in the Columbus Regionals are from the same league. Newark, Zanesville and Marietta are all members of the Central Ohio League, but all competed in different districts and all won. Columbus East, the other team in the regional, is favored to win, however.

LEE PATRONE, former West Virginia star cager, proved he hasn't lost the touch by scoring 43 points to lead the Wintersville faculty to a 92-91 win over the Wintersville varsity.

Marshall, St. Peter's Kick Off NIT Tonight

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP)—The Duke Blue Devils hope to erase the disastrous memory of last year in the opening college basketball doubleheader tonight of the 31st National Invitation Tournament.

The Blue Devils, 10th ranked nationally in the final Associated Press poll of the season, take the court against high-scoring Oklahoma City in the second game of the twinbill. Marshall and St. Peter's of New Jersey meet in the first game.

The Blue Devils, who were not sure until last Sunday night they would get a second chance in the NIT as the Atlantic Coast Conference representative, failed in their first try last year. They lost in their first game to Southern Illinois, the eventual champion, 72-63.

Duke, 21-5, brings back third team All-American Mike Lewis, who averaged 24 points and 15 rebounds this season. Oklahoma City, 20-6, relies on honorable mention All-American Rich Travis, a 30-point average scorer.

Marshall, 17-7, and St. Peter's, 22-2, each will try to improve on last year's NIT performances.

Marshall, led by George Stone's long jump shots and 23.4-point game average, has visions of bettering its surprising fourth-place finish of 1967. St. Peter's, led by Elnardo Webster's 24.7 average, was routed by Southern Illinois last year 103-58.

Another doubleheader Friday and four games on Saturday complete the first round of the 16-team field.

On Friday, Temple meets Kansas and Villanova opposes Wyoming. Saturday afternoon Army plays Notre Dame and Long Island goes against Bradley. Saturday night it will be Duquesne vs. Fordham and Dayton vs. West Virginia.

The NIT opening headlines the college basketball tournament scene tonight. The second round of the NCAA tournament for the national championship is not scheduled until Friday night at four regional sites.

The small college boys were busy Wednesday night with the quarter-finals in the NCAA college division tourney at Evansville, Ind., and the second round in the NAIA tourney at Kansas City.

At Evansville, Ashland, Ohio, beat Cheyney State 45-30, Indiana State downed Nevada Southern 94-75, Kentucky Wesleyan defeated American International 90-78 and Trinity, Tex., whipped Evansville 93-77.

Westminster, Pa., edged Monmouth, N.J., 70-69, Fairmont, W.Va., thumped New Haven 97-72, Eastern Michigan took Hanover 94-81 and Central Washington defeated Alcorn A&M 85-70 in the NAIA at Kansas City.

In the other second-round games, Central State, Ohio, conquered Valdosta State 60-53, Drury humbled Northeastern Oklahoma 85-69, Dickinson, N.D., squeaked by St. Cloud State 70-68 and Oshkosh State beat Eastern Montana 82-75.

Royals Beat Supersonics, Trail Pistons By 1 Game

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Royals are live, but the Baltimore Bullets are dying.

By beating Seattle 142-123 Wednesday night, the Royals remained one game behind idle Detroit in the fight for the National Basketball Association's final Eastern Division playoff spot.

But when the Bullets were beaten 100-96 by the lowly Chicago Bulls, they fell 2½ games behind the Pistons and their playoff hopes were reduced to prayers for a miracle.

And what miracles it will have to be. Baltimore has four games left: two with Boston, two with Philadelphia. Winning three of those plus a sudden collapse by both the Royals and Pistons is what is needed.

In other NBA games, New York beat Philadelphia 130-120; Los Angeles clinched second place in the West by clubbing San Francisco 142-106 and Boston crushed San Diego 144-118.

Detroit has five games left — two with Los Angeles, and one each with San Francisco, Seattle and Boston — while Cincinnati has three left — with St. Louis, Philadelphia and New York.

Seattle closed to within one point of Cincinnati in the third period, but Tom Van Arsdale and Bill Dinwiddie led a spurt that kept the Royals comfortably ahead. Oscar Robertson scored 36 points while Bob Rule had 40 for the Sonics.

John Havlicek's 34 points for Boston helped send San Diego to its 12th straight loss.

Penguins Lose To Hawks, Lose Ground In Race

The National Hockey League countdown still is in progress but the Boston Bruins have had the New York Rangers' number all season.

They proved it again Wednesday night with a 2-1 victory that left the two teams tied for second place in the East Division, one point ahead of fourth-place Chicago, which edged Pittsburgh 4-3.

In other Wednesday night action:

Philadelphia opened up a three-point lead over second-place Los Angeles in the West Division with a 4-2 triumph over Minnesota.

St. Louis and Toronto fought to a 3-3 tie, leaving the third-place Blues four points behind Philadelphia and bringing the Maple Leafs closer to playoff elimination.

Detroit beat Oakland 4-2 in a battle for division cellar-dwellers.

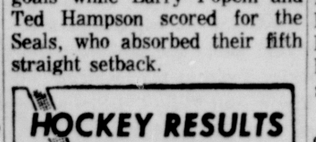

Johnny Bucyk's 30th goal of the season with 4½ minutes to play provided the Boston victory, although the Bruins were outshot 40-22. Boston's Ed Westfall and New York's Jim Neilson had traded second-period goals, Westfall's coming with his team shorthanded.

Philadelphia rammed three second-period goals past Minnesota's Cesare Maniago, who was playing with a broken jaw. It was only the fourth victory in 14 games for the slumping Flyers and all four have come against the North Stars.

Toronto, trailing St. Louis 3-2, pulled goalie Bruce Gamble with a minute to play and it paid off when newly acquired Paul Henderson scored the tying goal with 26 seconds left. Jim Roberts scored twice for the Blues, including a breakaway goal with his team a man short.

A four-goal comeback in the third period lifted Detroit to victory after Oakland had forged ahead 2-0 in the opening stanza. Bando Slams 2 For A's

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sal Bando is making it hard for the Oakland Athletics to send him to Vancouver. And Bob Schellenberg is making it hard for the Philadelphia Phillies to keep him in oblivion.

Bando smacked two homers in Oakland's 4-1 victory over the New York Yankees in their exhibition baseball game Wednesday. That makes four homers for the young third baseman in two games.

Bando hit only nine homers all last year in 116 games with the Athletics' Vancouver farm club. In 41 contests with the big league club he went homerless.

Schellenberg's story is something else again. His grand-slam homer Wednesday was the big blow in the Phillies' 8-0 triumph over Houston. It was his second time at bat during the spring, his second homer and raised his RBI total to seven.

In his first time up Sunday, Schellenberg, who isn't even on the Phillies' roster, hit a three-run homer.

In other games Wednesday, Cleveland edged San Francisco 6-5, the Chicago Cubs took California 5-4, St. Louis beat Detroit 6-2, Washington nudged Minnesota 5-4 and Los Angeles outlasted the New York Mets 3-2.

Also, the Chicago White Sox blanked Pittsburgh 4-0, Baltimore beat Atlanta 2-1 and Cincinnati beat Boston 5-3 in 10 innings.

Bando drove in all the Athletics' runs with a three-run homer in the first inning and a solo shot in the eighth. Jim Bouton pitched four hitless innings for the Yankees, extending his hitless streak to eight innings.

Woody Fryman, who allowed two hits in four innings, Larry Colton, who gave up no hits in three innings, and Jeff James combined for the shutout for the Phillies.

Cleveland caught the Giants in a hurry on Duke Sims' grand-slam homer in the eighth and finally won in the ninth on a double and a pair of sacrifices.

Adolfo Phillips, who had three hits for the Cubs, came up with a big one in the 10th, a single that drove in the winning run. Ted Savage had four hits for Chicago.

Phil Gagliano's two doubles paced an 11-hit attack that beat Detroit for the Cardinals. Bob Gibson and Steve Carlton handcuffed the Tigers on one hit for the first six innings.

Washington's victory, its fourth straight, came when Frank Coggins was walked in the bottom of the 10th, forcing in Bernie Allen with the winning tally.

Wes Parker drove in one run and scored another for the Dodgers who got four strong innings of pitching from Claude Osteen.

Jack Fisher, Gary Peters, Hoyt Wilhelm and Wilbur Wood held Pittsburgh scoreless while Tommy Davis cracked out three hits for the White Sox.

Don Buford's single in the 11th inning sent home the winning run for the Orioles. It was Baltimore's third straight extra-inning game.

Tommy Helms' two-run single with two out in the 10th was the margin of victory for the Reds who have now won five of their last six games. Tony Perez homered for Cincinnati.

Lamonica Leading AFL Passer

NEW YORK (AP) — Daryle Lamonica, who led the Oakland Raiders to their first American Football League championship last season, was the No. 1 passer in the league.

Official statistics released today showed Lamonica, who gained 3,228 yards through the air, ranked No. 1 ahead of Kansas City's Len Dawson, the 1966 leader.

Lamonica threw for 30 touchdowns, tops in the league, and completed 220 of 425 attempts.

Dawson led in competition percentage with 57.7 while New York's Joe Namath finished third with the most completions, 258, most yards gained, 4,007, and most average yards gained, 8.16.

Idle Pipers Clinch ABA Title

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pipers won the Eastern Division championship of the American Basketball Association without even getting into uniform.

The Pipers backed into the title when the second-place Minnesota Muskies were beaten by the Indiana Pacers 116-106 at Indianapolis Wednesday night.

The Pipers have three regular season games left, but they can lose all of them and still finish ahead of the Muskies. The Pipers announced they have tentatively scheduled the first game of their best-of-5 playoff series with Indiana at Pittsburgh March 25.

Indiana clinched its third-place playoff spot by defeating the Muskies. Jim Rayl and Reggie Harding combined for 60 points for the Pacers, who made it 10 in a row on their home court at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Rayl and Harding each scored 30 points. Mel Daniels led Minnesota with 20.

New Jersey, battling for the fourth and last playoff spot in the East, defeated Denver 96-87 at Teaneck, N.J., in the only other ABA game scheduled. The victory gave the fourth-place New Jersey club a two-game lead over last place Kentucky with three road games left to play.

Free throws by Mel Nowell and Hank Whitney broke an 83-83 tie in the last three minutes and put New Jersey ahead for good. Bob Lloyd's 26 points paced the winners. Larry Jones topped Denver with 22.

Midland Advances In Tourney

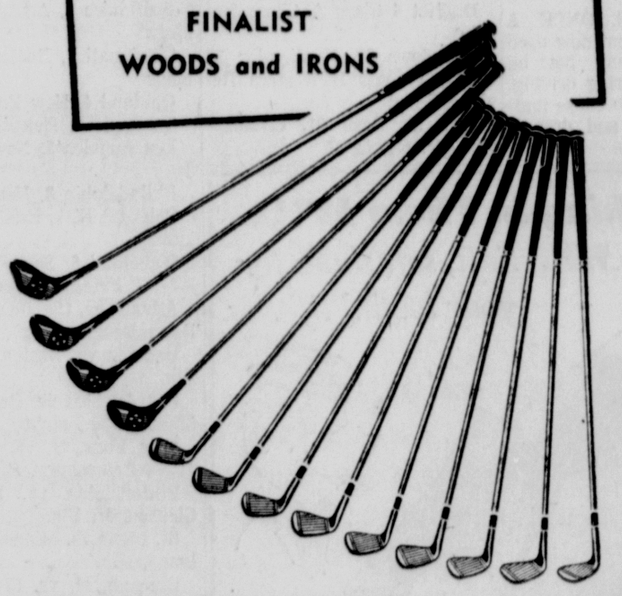

Midland advanced in the Hopewell undergrad basketball tournament last night with a 51-49 win over Neshannock.

Greg Vanlier led the winners with 15 points, while George Green, only a freshman, added 13. Ken Bauder had 20 for the losers.

Midland meets Center at 6:45 in a quarter semi - final game tonight. In other action last night New Brighton beat Coraopolis 65-41 and Rochester topped Beaver Falls 60-46.

Oakland Can Go Only Up

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Charlie O. Finley has moved his Kansas City Athletics to Oakland with his eighth new manager in eight years and a cast of promising kids who will be scrapping to escape from the American League cellar.

The financial future of the transplanted A's looks bright with a new 50,000-seat stadium and a heavy advance sale that indicates a sellout for opening day, April 17. The threat to the old established San Francisco Giants across the bay in windy Candlestick Park is real.

Nobody expects too much from the A's who have been in the cellar in three of the last four years, and Bay area fans are expected to be tolerant of youthful shortcomings.

"We can go only one way," said Manager Bob Kennedy, "At least this year. It is going to be a challenge. Some of our players have been force-fed and it will take time and patience. But we have a good bunch of kids."

Actually, the A's were 10th on merit last season. They were last in pitching, double plays and hit fewer homers, 69, than any club in either league.

Perhaps the move to the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum with its symmetrical layout and more convenient 330-foot foul lines will help the power production. Perhaps, too, it will put an added burden on the young pitching staff.

Joe DiMaggio, the new executive vice-president, adds a little class to an operation that left Kansas City after 13 years.

Kennedy, who managed the Chicago Cubs as head coach of a 12-man staff in 1963, 1964 and part of 1965, is feeling his way. He admits that most of his information on his athletes is strictly hearsay. By the time he cuts his club to 25 for the trip home, he will know much more.

"They tell me I have a good, young pitching staff," he said. "I know they can throw hard and have good strong arms. The rest will have to come from the exhibition games. We think we will be better."

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, 13-17, Jim Nash, 12-17, and Chuck Dobson, 10-10, are his proven starters. The oldest of the trio is Dobson, 24. Eventually, Kennedy hopes to have five starters.

He will pick the others from among Blue Moon Odom, 3-8, Lew Krausse, 7-17, and left-handers Tony Pierce, 3-4, and Paul Lindblad, 5-8. George Laizerique, a 21-year-old Cuban who was 13-4 on the Birmingham farm, also will get a long look.

Jack Aker, a workhorse relief man who was sensational in 1966 but a 3-8 flop in 1967, is the key to the bullpen.

Kennedy seems dedicated to youth on his club. He will go with Ramon Webster at first, John Donaldson at second and Sal Bando at third. All are second-year men. The shortstop will be Bert Campaneris who has led the league in stolen bases for the last three seasons.

If the youth program works out Reggie Jackson, former Arizona State star, will be in right, Rick Monday, the $104,000 draftee of 1965 in center and probably veteran Dan Cater in left.

The catching is wide open. Jim Pagliaroni, the former Pittsburgh catcher, actually is on a minor league roster but he appears to have recovered from the neck injury that put him on the disabled list in 1967.

Pag or Phil Roof could be No. 1 although the entire organization is high on Dave Duncan, a 6-foot-2, 200-pounder who hit .188 on a trial last year. Duncan hit 46 homers in the minors in 1966 and is regarded as the man of the future.

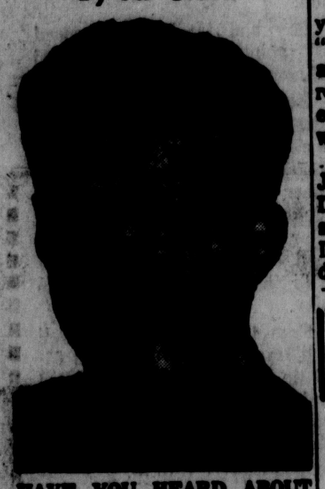

The A's were 29½ games out last season and 9½ behind the ninth-place New York Yankees. It is a long haul deal, and the fans will have to be patient.

Next—Cincinnati.

Samuels' Shot Wins For Titans

KANSAS CITY (AP) —Westminster, Pa., advancing on its second straight last-second victory, faces Eastern Michigan tonight in a quarterfinal game of the NAIA basketball tournament.

Bill Samuels' one-hander from outside the foul circle at the final buzzer gave the Titans a 70-69 victory over Monmouth, N.J., Wednesday. In their first game Monday, the Titans nipped Pasadena, Calif., 69-67 on a tip-in at the buzzer.

Henry Moore had put Monmouth ahead with 10 seconds left but Samuels had the last shot.

The game was tied 10 times and the lead changed hands six times. Westminster controlled the second half until it became a see-saw battle again with six minutes left.

Mike Drespling scored 22 points to lead Westminster while Leetonia's George Zepernick added 15, Russ Boston 13 and Samuels 12.

Sports Quiz

Here is a sports quiz to test the knowledge of area sports fans.

The quiz will appear in The Review every Thursday, along with the answers to the preceeding week's quiz and the names of the people who got the most questions right. Winners will receive two tickets to a Pittsburgh Penguins game of their choice.

The questions are not meant to be easy, and pertain in many cases to what is sometimes called "sports trivia." Please do not phone the Review with answers or questions about the quiz. Answers may be mailed in or dropped off at the Review before noon on Wednesdays.

Once again Earl Diddle sent in a perfect entry, but was given a close run for his money by Pat McNicol of 909 Riverside, Wellsville. McNicol missed one part of question 3, failing to identify pitcher Dave Sisler as the third member of that family to appear in the major leagues. George Sisler is a member of the Hall of Fame and his son Dick, now a coach, won the 1950 pennant for the Phillies with a home run.

The family that had the most players in the majors was the Delahantys, with five brothers appearing in the major leagues between 1888 and 1915. Players now in the majors who had fathers in the major leagues include Len Gabrielson, Lew Krausse, Doug Camilli, Tom Tresh, Mike Hegan, Mel Queen and Hal Lanier. The last set of three brothers in the majors before the Alous were the Boyers, Ken, Clete and Cloyd. On May 18, 1912, the Detroit Tigers players struck before a game as a protest to the suspension of Ty Cobb. The Tigers management signed eight players from St. Joseph's College (the strike was in Philadelphia) and one sandlotter, and this group faced the powerful Philadelphia Athletics, getting trounced 24-2. The Tigers returned to play after this one game.

The largest minor league attendance ever was on Aug. 7, 1956 at Miami, for a game with Columbus in the International League. Burleigh Grimes was the last of the legal spit-ball pitchers; Franklin P. Adams of the New York Post immortalized the Cubs' double-play combination of Tinker, Evers and Chance; Ernest L. Trayer wrote "Casey at The Bat"; and Vic Davalillo's brother Pompeyo (Yo-Yo) Davalillo appeared in 19 games at shortstop for the 1953 Senators.

This week's questions:

1. What team finished third in the 1961 NCAA basketball tournament?
2. What were two extraordinary features of the game that decided third place in the tournament?
3. The team had to forfeit it third place trophy because it was accused of "shaving points". Who were the three players involved in the scandal?
4. What is the all-time series standing between West Virginia U. and Marshall in basketball?
5. Buzz Ridl, new coach at Pitt, had one of his finest moments at Westminster when the Titans upset nationally-ranked Duquesne in 1962. Who were the starters for Westminster in this game?
6. Who were the starters for Duquesne?
7. What college basketball team once won 99 straight games at home?
8. What Western Pennsylvania high school won 99 straight basketball games at home?
9. Who is Gordon "Dunk-it" Sunkett?
10. What Western Pennsylvania high school has a different nickname in football and basketball?

Wheeling Coach Murphy Sees Win Over Charleston

By ED RICE
Associated Press Writer

Charleston and Beckley are the favorites in the state high school Triple-A basketball tournament — but not everyone sees it that way.

Wheeling Wildcats' coach Ed Murphy — a self-admitted optimist — predicts that his team can topple the unbeaten Mountain Lions in the first round and go on to win the crown.

The Mountain Lions and Wildcats go at it tooth and claw Friday afternoon in Charleston's Civic Center. Defending state AAA champion Beckley takes on mysterious Martinsburg Friday night.

All four AA teams are scheduled to play tonight with Ceredo - Kenova vs. St. Marys in the first game and Mullens vs. Charles Town in the nightcap.

First-round Class-A action begins with the Marlinton - Fort Ashby game prior to the Charleston - Wheeling contest Friday. Barrackville plays Harts before the Beckley - Martinsburg night game.

Charleston coach Lou Romano isn't taking Wheeling lightly. "They've got a 19-5 record. I worry about that," Romano admitted. Romano added that if All-State forward Curtis Price were not still hampered by a knee injury his worries would be over.

Palmer Sees Seating At Tournaments

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, whose blasting power and magnetic personality helped build the pro golf tour into a multimillion dollar operation, says he thinks tournament crowds in the future will be so huge that spectators will be assigned seats.

"I think we eventually will see a golf tournament set up like a baseball or football game, where the spectators buy assigned seats," Palmer said before starting his bid today in the Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

Palmer has won $953,777 in official prize money playing golf and harvested many times that much in businesses built from his game. He said he thinks the increased crowds will result in construction of courses designed to provide spectators with a view of most of the holes.

"I believe that courses will be built so at least every other green is around the clubhouse, and players will go out and back instead of going way around like we do now," Palmer said.

Palmer has won but one of eight tournaments this year, but his play in tuning up for this tournament has put him among the list of the favorites for the Citrus Open crown. He was the leading pro in the pro-am preliminary Wednesday with a 66, and he shot a 65 in a round at Puerto Rico Tuesday.

Palmer is just one of several contenders for the $25,000 Citrus title being defended by Julius Boros. Jack Nicklaus, still looking for his first victory of the year, and South African Gary Player—making his 1968 U.S. debut—also are in the flashy field.

Red Auerbach Forsees Cage Signing War

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Celtics' General Manager Arnold "Red" Auerbach says he foresees a signing war between the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association this spring.

"I don't see how a signing war can be avoided. There wasn't one a year ago because the ABA hadn't played a game," he said Wednesday.

"Now it (ABA) will have a season under its belt. So there figures to be some serious bidding, but probably only where first-round choices are concerned," he added.

Auerbach cited Houston's Elvin Hayes and Louisville's Westley Unseld as "a couple of pips," whose price will be high.

"It's difficult to estimate how much prices will be inflated," he said, "but I suspect they may come close to being doubled."

Oakland Can Go Only Up

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Charlie O. Finley has moved his Kansas City Athletics to Oakland with his eighth new manager in eight years and a cast of promising kids who will be scrapping to escape from the American League cellar.

The financial future of the transplanted A's looks bright with a new 50,000-seat stadium and a heavy advance sale that indicates a sellout for opening day, April 17. The threat to the old established San Francisco Giants across the bay in windy Candlestick Park is real.

Nobody expects too much from the A's who have been in the cellar in three of the last four years, and Bay area fans are expected to be tolerant of youthful shortcomings.

"We can go only one way," said Manager Bob Kennedy, "At least this year. It is going to be a challenge. Some of our players have been force-fed and it will take time and patience. But we have a good bunch of kids."

Actually, the A's were 10th on merit last season. They were last in pitching, double plays and hit fewer homers, 69, than any club in either league.

Perhaps the move to the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum with its symmetrical layout and more convenient 330-foot foul lines will help the power production. Perhaps, too, it will put an added burden on the young pitching staff.

Joe DiMaggio, the new executive vice-president, adds a little class to an operation that left Kansas City after 13 years.

Kennedy, who managed the Chicago Cubs as head coach of a 12-man staff in 1963, 1964 and part of 1965, is feeling his way. He admits that most of his information on his athletes is strictly hearsay. By the time he cuts his club to 25 for the trip home, he will know much more.

"They tell me I have a good, young pitching staff," he said. "I know they can throw hard and have good strong arms. The rest will have to come from the exhibition games. We think we will be better."

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, 13-17, Jim Nash, 12-17, and Chuck Dobson, 10-10, are his proven starters. The oldest of the trio is Dobson, 24. Eventually, Kennedy hopes to have five starters.

He will pick the others from among Blue Moon Odom, 3-8, Lew Krausse, 7-17, and left-handers Tony Pierce, 3-4, and Paul Lindblad, 5-8. George Laizerique, a 21-year-old Cuban who was 13-4 on the Birmingham farm, also will get a long look.

Jack Aker, a workhorse relief man who was sensational in 1966 but a 3-8 flop in 1967, is the key to the bullpen.

Kennedy seems dedicated to youth on his club. He will go with Ramon Webster at first, John Donaldson at second and Sal Bando at third. All are second-year men. The shortstop will be Bert Campaneris who has led the league in stolen bases for the last three seasons.

If the youth program works out Reggie Jackson, former Arizona State star, will be in right, Rick Monday, the $104,000 draftee of 1965 in center and probably veteran Dan Cater in left.

The catching is wide open. Jim Pagliaroni, the former Pittsburgh catcher, actually is on a minor league roster but he appears to have recovered from the neck injury that put him on the disabled list in 1967.

Pag or Phil Roof could be No. 1 although the entire organization is high on Dave Duncan, a 6-foot-2, 200-pounder who hit .188 on a trial last year. Duncan hit 46 homers in the minors in 1966 and is regarded as the man of the future.

The A's were 29½ games out last season and 9½ behind the ninth-place New York Yankees. It is a long haul deal, and the fans will have to be patient.

Next—Cincinnati.

Samuels' Shot Wins For Titans

KANSAS CITY (AP) —Westminster, Pa., advancing on its second straight last-second victory, faces Eastern Michigan tonight in a quarterfinal game of the NAIA basketball tournament.

Bill Samuels' one-hander from outside the foul circle at the final buzzer gave the Titans a 70-69 victory over Monmouth, N.J., Wednesday. In their first game Monday, the Titans nipped Pasadena, Calif., 69-67 on a tip-in at the buzzer.

Henry Moore had put Monmouth ahead with 10 seconds left but Samuels had the last shot.

The game was tied 10 times and the lead changed hands six times. Westminster controlled the second half until it became a see-saw battle again with six minutes left.

Mike Dresspling scored 22 points to lead Wesminster while Leetonia's George Zepernick added 15, Russ Boston 13 and Samuels 12.

Sports Quiz

Here is a sports quiz to test the knowledge of area sports fans.

The quiz will appear in The Review every Thursday, along with the answers to the preceeding week's quiz and the names of the people who got the most questions right. Winners will receive two tickets to a Pittsburgh Penguins game of their choice.

The questions are not meant to be easy, and pertain in many cases to what is sometimes called "sports trivia." Please do not phone the Review with answers or questions about the quiz. Answers may be mailed in or dropped off at the Review before noon on Wednesdays.

Once again Earl Diddle sent in a perfect entry, but was given a close run for his money by Pat McNicol of 909 Riverside, Wellsville. McNicol missed one part of question 3, failing to identify pitcher Dave Sisler as the third member of that family to appear in the major leagues. George Sisler is a member of the Hall of Fame and his son Dick, now a coach, won the 1950 pennant for the Phillies with a home run.

The family that had the most players in the majors was the Delahantys, with five brothers appearing in the major leagues between 1888 and 1915. Players now in the majors who had fathers in the major leagues include Len Gabrielson, Lew Krausse, Doug Camilli, Tom Tresh, Mike Hegan, Mel Queen and Hal Lanier. The last set of three brothers in the majors before the Alous were the Boyers, Ken, Clete and Cloyd. On May 18, 1912, the Detroit Tigers players struck before a game as a protest to the suspension of Ty Cobb. The Tigers management signed eight players from St. Joseph's College (the strike was in Philadelphia) and one sandlotter, and this group faced the powerful Philadelphia Athletics, getting trounced 24-2. The Tigers returned to play after this one game.

The largest minor league attendance ever was on Aug. 7, 1956 at Miami, for a game with Columbus in the International League. Burleigh Grimes was the last of the legal spit-ball pitchers; Franklin P. Adams of the New York Post immortalized the Cubs' double-play combination of Tinker, Evers and Chance; Ernest L. Trayer wrote "Casey at The Bat"; and Vic Davalillo's brother Pompeyo (Yo-Yo) Davalillo appeared in 19 games at shortstop for the 1953 Senators.

This week's questions:

1. What team finished third in the 1961 NCAA basketball tournament?
2. What were two extraordinary features of the game that decided third place in the tournament?
3. The team had to forfeit it third place trophy because it was accused of "shaving points". Who were the three players involved in the scandal?
4. What is the all-time series standing between West Virginia U. and Marshall in basketball?
5. Buzz Ridl, new coach at Pitt, had one of his finest moments at Westminster when the Titans upset nationally-ranked Duquesne in 1962. Who were the starters for Westminster in this game?
6. Who were the starters for Duquesne?
7. What college basketball team once won 99 straight games at home?
8. What Western Pennsylvania high school won 99 straight basketball games at home?
9. Who is Gordon "Dunk-it" Sunkett?
10. What Western Pennsylvania high school has a different nickname in football and basketball?

Wheeling Coach Murphy Sees Win Over Charleston

By ED RICE
Associated Press Writer

Charleston and Beckley are the favorites in the state high school Triple-A basketball tournament — but not everyone sees it that way.

Wheeling Wildcats' coach Ed Murphy — a self - admitted optimist — predicts that his team can topple the unbeaten Mountain Lions in the first round and go on to win the crown.

The Mountain Lions and Wildcats go at it tooth and claw Friday afternoon in Charleston's Civic Center. Defending state AAA champion Beckley takes on mysterious Martinsburg Friday night.

All four AA teams are scheduled to play tonight with Ceredo - Kenova vs. St. Marys in the first game and Mullens vs. Charles Town in the nightcap.

Charleston coach Lou Romano isn't taking Wheeling lightly.

"They've got a 19-5 record. I worry about that," Romano admitted. Romano added that if All - State forward Curtis Price were not still hampered by a knee injury his worries would be over.

Palmer Sees Seating At Tournaments

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, whose blasting power and magnetic personality helped build the pro golf tour into a multimillion dollar operation, says he thinks tournament crowds in the future will be so huge that spectators will be assigned seats.

"I think we eventually will see a golf tournament set up like a baseball or football game, where the spectators buy assigned seats," Palmer said before starting his bid today in the Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

Palmer has won $953,777 in official prize money playing golf and harvested many times that much in businesses built from his game. He said he thinks the increased crowds will result in construction of courses designed to provide spectators with a view of most of the holes.

"I believe that courses will be built so at least every other green is around the clubhouse, and players will go out and back instead of going way around like we do now," Palmer said.

Palmer has won but one of eight tournaments this year, but his play in tuning up for this tournament has put him among the list of the favorites for the Citrus Open crown. He was the leading pro in the pro-am preliminary Wednesday with a 66, and he shot a 65 in a round at Puerto Rico Tuesday.

Palmer is just one of several contenders for the $25,000 Citrus title being defended by Julius Boros. Jack Nicklaus, still looking for his first victory of the year, and South African Gary Player—making his 1968 U.S. debut—also are in the flashy field.

Red Auerbach Forsees Cage Signing War

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Celtics' General Manager Arnold "Red" Auerbach says he foresees a signing war between the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association this spring.

"I don't see how a signing war can be avoided. There wasn't one a year ago because the ABA hadn't played a game," he said Wednesday.

"Now it (ABA) will have a season under its belt. So there figures to be some serious bidding, but probably only where first-round choices are concerned," he added.

Auerbach cited Houston's Elvin Hayes and Louisville's Westley Unseld as "a couple of pips," whose price will be high.

"It's difficult to estimate how much prices will be inflated," he said, "but I suspect they may come close to being doubled."

Junior Editors Quiz on TOURNAMENTS

QUESTION: Why did owners of castles hold tournaments?

ANSWER: Castles were built by wealthy and powerful lords and barons, in the old days of feudalism which followed the breakup of the Roman Empire. War was going on in Europe much of the time and each lord had his fighting knights. Tournaments were gatherings which displayed the courage and hardihood of the knights. Sometimes groups of knights would engage in fierce combat, and many might be killed; but often there would be individual encounters like the one we picture. A jousting field has been set up outside the castle. A group of nobles sit in the place of honor where a Queen of Beauty will award a rich prize to the victorious knight. A herald blows his long horn; the mounted knights thunder at each other, aiming their heavy lances. They crash; one or both may be unseated, or even killed. Frequently, unseated knights would continue to fight on foot with swords, until one had been forced to yield.

Junior Editors Quiz on TOURNAMENTS

QUESTION: Why did owners of castles hold tournaments?

ANSWER: Castles were built by wealthy and powerful lords and barons, in the old days of feudalism which followed the breakup of the Roman Empire. War was going on in Europe much of the time and each lord had his fighting knights. Tournaments were gatherings which displayed the courage and hardihood of the knights. Sometimes groups of knights would engage in fierce combat, and many might be killed; but often there would be individual encounters like the one we picture. A jousting field has been set up outside the castle. A group of nobles sit in the place of honor where a Queen of Beauty will award a rich prize to the victorious knight. A herald blows his long horn; the mounted knights thunder at each other, aiming their heavy lances. They crash; one or both may be unseated, or even killed. Frequently, unseated knights would continue to fight on foot with swords, until one had been forced to yield.
